20,000 Coal Miners In Alabama Strike; Cancel Agreement

Lewis Blames Operators as Long Truce
Collapses; Mediation Board Urges
Production To Continue.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The United Mine Workers of America (CIO) notified Alabama coal operators yesterday it was cancelling the temporary agreement under which mines have been operating since May 8 and was calling all its members from work.

William Mitch, district president of the UMWA at Birmingham, said the cancellation was voted by the union scale committee "because there has been unreasonable delay" in negotiating a permanent contract.

John L. Lewis, president of the mine workers, in an announcement in Washington, blamed the strike on failure of Alabama operators to agree to terms on the Appalachian settlement covering the majority of mines in other sections.

Mitch estimated 20,000 of the 25,000 Alabama miners were out yesterday afternoon, with most of the others scheduled to cease work during the night.

This action came as the Defense Mediation Board in Washington announced it would attempt to settle the strike, which already has shut down every one of the mines which supply fuel for the Birmingham district's heavy industries.

William H. Davis, chairman of the Defense Mediation Board in Washington, asked operators and striking miners to resume production pending the board's consideration.

In identical telegrams to both sides, Davis said that a hearing would be held September 10.

The messages went to David Roberts Jr., chairman of the operators' negotiating committee, and William Mitch, president of District 20 of the UMWA, both at Birmingham.

The board will take jurisdiction under the certification to it of the widespread dispute last spring between the United Mine Workers (CIO) and mine operators.

Oil Industry Agrees To Use All Tank Cars

Railroads Called Upon To Prove Claim They Can Cure Shortage.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—The oil industry agreed tonight to use every available railroad tank car to haul petroleum to the east.

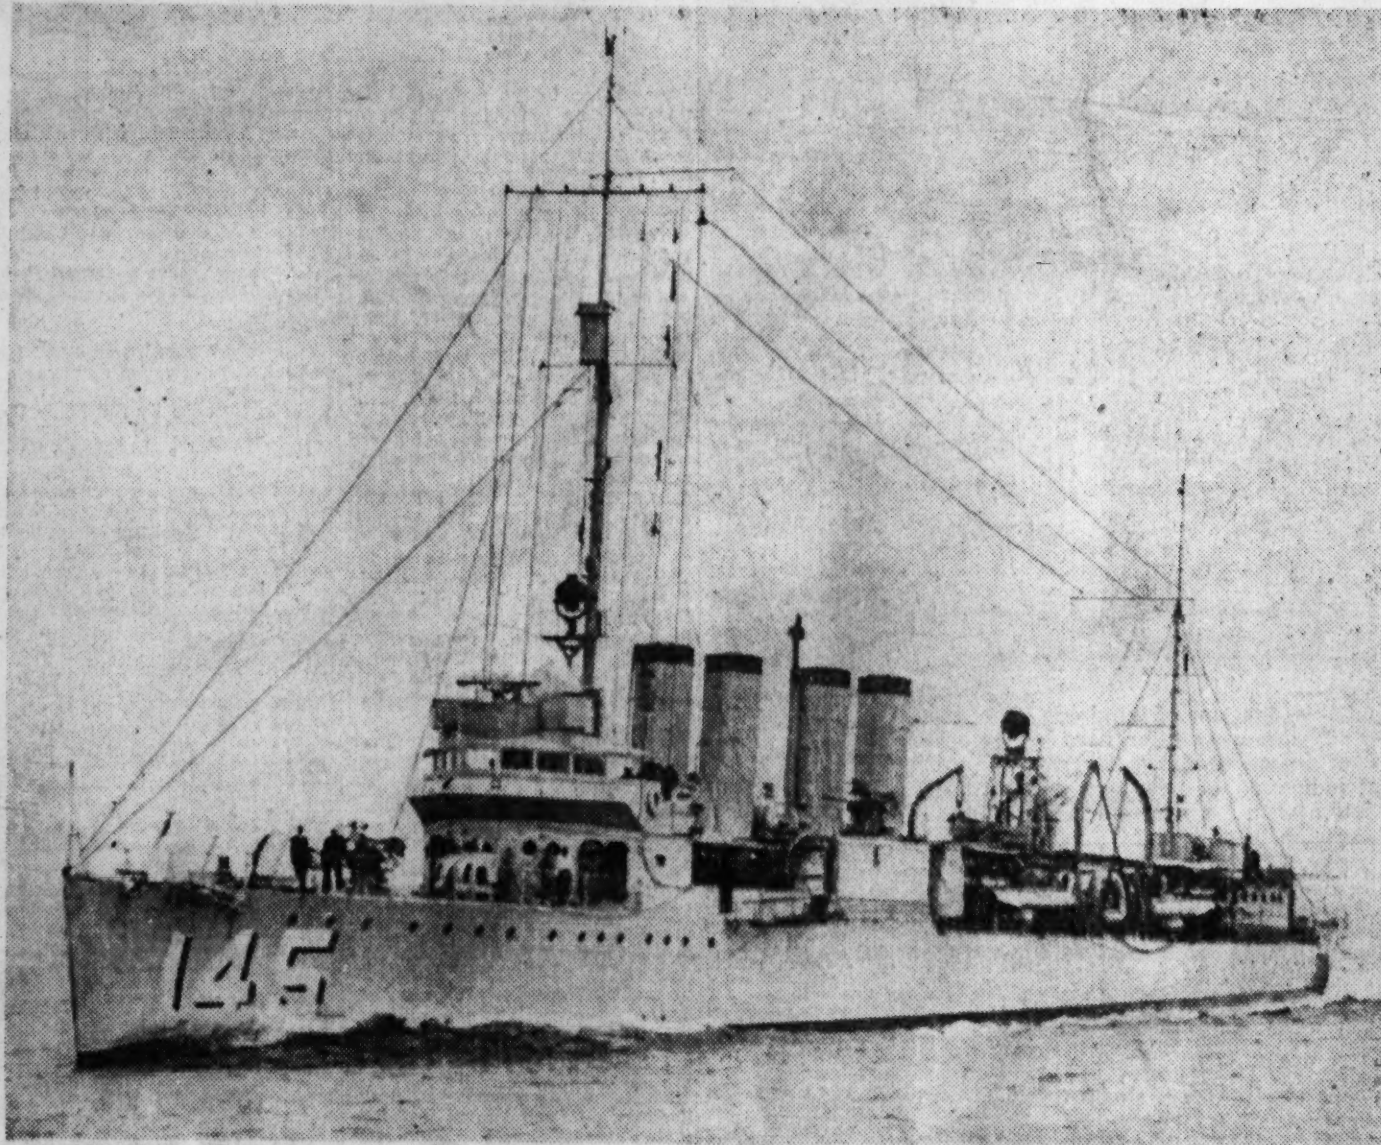

An official said the industry was, in effect, calling on the American railroads to make good on a statement that tank cars could "cure" the threatened oil shortage on the Atlantic seaboard within two weeks.

Meanwhile, at the capital a suggestion was advanced that the threatened gasoline shortage on the Atlantic seaboard had been "planned" in order to hasten laying of a great pipeline.

Oil men representing the Defense Petroleum Co-ordinator's Office laid before the carriers proposals for cuts in tank car freight rates, now six times higher than sea tanker rates.

It was authoritatively reported that the railroad men offered to cut their rates in half for crude oil shipments and reduce by one-third the rates on gasoline from the producing points. There were counterproposals, it was understood, and also an effort of the carriers to bring about a reduction in the present rate of 1 1/2 cents per mile which railroads are required to pay as rental for tank cars.

GOOD DODGER—The U. S. destroyer Greer escaped without a scratch yesterday when a submarine attacked her while she was en route to Iceland with mail. Though the torpedoes fired at her missed the target, she counter-attacked with depth charges. This picture of the Greer was given the Constitution by E. D. McKay, of 327 Josephine street, N. E., a former member of the U. S. Navy, who was stationed aboard her from 1931 to 1933.

Mail-Bearing Greer En Route to Iceland When Firing Occurs

Mistaken Identity Considered Possible in Torpedoing; Ship Similar to Those Sent Britain.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—An unsuccessful attempt by a submarine to torpedo the United States destroyer Greer, en route to Iceland, was reported tonight by the Navy, which said the warship counterattacked with depth bombs.

The initial report of this first "shooting incident" of the Navy's far-flung activities in the Atlantic did not say whether the nationality of the submarine had been determined.

Results of the destroyer's counterattack with depth bombs, it was announced, were unknown.

Location Undisclosed.
Although the destroyer was said to be proceeding to Iceland with mail, the approximate location of the attack was not made known. Nor did the Navy say when it occurred other than "this morning."

The Navy's announcement was limited to the following:
"The Navy Department announced that U. S. S. Greer, en route to Iceland with mail, reported this morning that submarine attacked her by firing torpedoes which missed their mark. The Greer immediately counterattacked with depth charges."

"Results unknown."

The Greer, built in 1918, has a silhouette identical with those of the 50 World War destroyers traded to Great Britain last year for naval base sites on British possessions in the western Atlantic.

Mistaken Identity Possible.
For this reason, there was some speculation in unofficial quarters that an Axis submarine, if one attacked the vessel, might have mistaken it for a British warship.

The Navy press section officials were unable to state whether the attack took place before or after daylight, but one veteran submarine officer said:
"You cannot see a torpedo track at night."

The American government long ago made clear that any attack on American ships would be answered with shooting.

In his message to congress on July 7 announcing an agreement with Iceland for establishment of a base there, President Roosevelt said:
"I have issued orders to the Navy that all necessary steps be taken to insure the safety of communications in the approaches between Iceland and the United States, as well as on the seas between the United States and all other strategic outposts."

The Greer, a 1,200-ton vessel which was launched December 31, 1918, at the Cramp shipyards in Philadelphia, carries a normal crew of 113 men and nine officers.

Her commander is Lieutenant Commander Laurence Hugh Frost, a resident of Washington, D. C. He became commanding officer of the Greer August 4, 1941.

Frost is 39 years old, a native of Fayetteville, Ark., and a 1926 graduate of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Immediate reaction in congress included expressions of surprise that any submarine would attack an American destroyer.

George Reserves Opinion.
Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, ranking member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the incident did not appear on the surface to be one which might plunge the country into war. But he added that additional facts would have to be divulged before anyone could form any real opinion.

Senator Van Nuys, Democrat, Indiana, another member of the Foreign Relations group, had this to say: "I would not think this single incident would draw us into the war, but if we keep sticking our neck out—as we did very much in going into Iceland—something is bound to happen."

"It is that kind of thing that will get us in. If the administration keeps making possible incidents like this then they will convince the people they are trying to maneuver us into the conflict."

Senator Austin, Republican, Vermont, the assistant minority leader, said that it was "amazing" that any submarine would attack an American destroyer. He added that he wished to reserve judgment on the incident. "This is not a thing for hasty opinion," he said. "We should know more about it."

Whether any other units of the United States forces in Iceland, such as navy patrol planes, took

Miss Mitchell Off To Launch New Cruiser

Long-Delayed Needlepoint Taken on Christening Trip by Writer.

Laden with two magazines, four mystery novels, "The Keys of the Kingdom," and a green chair cover she hopes to finish before she gets back home, Peggy Mitchell left Atlanta yesterday for Kearny, N. J., where on Saturday morning she will smash a bottle of champagne across the bow of the cruiser Atlanta as the new Navy fighter slides down the ways.

"I've been looking for a chance to finish the needlepoint on this chair cover for the past three years," Miss Mitchell said, peeping through the veil of an impudent brown hat that perched precariously on one side of her head. "I have brought it along with me in hope that at last I can get it done on the train. If I can't, it will probably be laid away in moth balls forever."

Month's Delay.
With a month to figure things out since the off-again-on-again christening of the cruiser was first scheduled, Miss Mitchell believes she has at last figured out how to smash a bottle of champagne over a ship without getting a shower.

"I am going to hold it low, and sort of bunt it against the side, and if it explodes it will splash on Jesse Draper, who will be standing nearby resplendent in a white uniform," she said.

If Miss Mitchell figures on doing much reading or needlepointing she will have to get it done on the train. Her time in New York and Kearny will be filled.

Publishers' Guest.
Two hours after she arrives in New York today she will be guest of the Macmillan Company, publishers of "Gone With the Wind," at a luncheon at the Waldorf. Everybody will be there who had anything to do with the book, from the president of Macmillan right on down the line to the proofreaders.

Tomorrow, after the launching at 10:30, there will be a party given by the Coca-Cola Company

Nazis Reported Held At Kiev, Leningrad

Russian Counteroffensives Bolster
Hopes for Strong Winter
Campaign by Reds

By The Associated Press.
The Russians claimed last night to be on the counteroffensive in the upper Ukraine and along the central front, and British quarters expressed confidence that the Red armies could and would hold on strongly through the winter.

The Germans for their part stressed action along the Black sea coast, where they reported smashing a Russian attempt to land troops intended to drive behind the southern Nazi flank; along the lower Dnieper, where repeated Russian attempts to force a western crossing were said to have been bloodily repulsed; and along the center, where it was claimed that two Soviet divisions had been destroyed, one by encirclement and the other in a vain attempt to break the German flank.

(Both at Leningrad, second city of the U. S. S. R., and at long-beleaguered Kiev, metropolis of the Ukraine, citizen soldiers flocked to the trenches with make-a-ship weapons, fought the Germans to a standstill, according to Russian announcements, and made them dig in for a long siege, the International News Service reported.)

S. A. Lozovsky, the Soviet spokesman, asserted that even before Leningrad the German drive was faltering, claiming that the Nazis there were actually in worse case than the defenders—not only could not advance but were being compelled to "throw in new forces to remain at the points they have reached."

Leningrad, he averred, was not encircled and the Soviet northern army was in fact fighting "on the quite distant approaches."

As to the south, he claimed that the Rumanians were carrying the burden of the German offensive and were suffering the greatest losses in their history.

An authoritative British informant, estimating Russian casualties thus far at from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 and those of the Germans at 1,750,000, declared that in spite of these enormous losses the Russian forces still were much the bigger—that 9,000,000 Russian soldiers were in action now and that 4,000,000 more would soon be ready for service.

The Russians, he added, already were discussing the campaigns of "next spring and August" were being plentifully supplied with British rubber and were getting all the planes Britain could spare, and had no need of British or American troops.

Indications that Hitler was similarly preoccupied with the swift passage of summer were seen in Moscow's reports yesterday that perhaps the bitterest of all action was about Kiev, where it appeared that the Germans were making a supreme effort to win one final victory in the Ukraine.

The Russian communique early today repeated the formula that Soviet troops continued to fight along the entire front, but disclosed that the Russians had thrown back a Nazi attempt to cross the Dnieper river on the southwestern front, with heavy losses to the Nazis.

Consumers Get Hearing Today On Milk Prices

Protest on Increase Will Be Filled With State Control Board.

Atlanta milk consumers who are protesting an increase in retail prices of this food necessity will be talking to themselves at the hearing scheduled at 11 o'clock this morning in the house of representative chambers at the Capitol.

Members of the milk control board, who must grant or refuse the price increase, will not be present to hear the evidence.

Charles G. Duncan, director of the board who will preside at the meeting, said this was the customary method of holding a hearing. He said all evidence will be taken down by a court reporter and copies will be distributed to board members, who will study the facts before making their decision at a meeting September 16.

Duncan said he planned to hold a "wide-open" hearing but warned persons interested in the price increase they had better come armed with evidence.

1,200 Teachers Have Resigned, Survey Shows

Reports From State Schools Incomplete; Pay Increase Seen.

Although reports from Georgia schools are less than half complete, J. I. Allman, assistant state superintendent of schools, said yesterday he had been notified about 1,200 teachers in elementary and high schools of Georgia had resigned since July 1.

Allman last week sent out questionnaires to local school officials in the state to check on reports of a serious teacher shortage. He said he would make no attempt to analyze the answers until they are complete.

The assistant superintendent expressed doubt, however, as to whether any schools will delay opening because of a teacher shortage. He pointed out that most of the vacancies had been filled. He reiterated his belief that salary scales might have to be raised in order to compete with the federal government and private industry, which are attracting many teachers.

PEOPLE IN DEBT CAN'T ENJOY LIFE

One Good Loan to Pay Old Bills Is Way to Happiness.

Nothing is more trying and nerve-racking than to be tormented by the constant realization of past-due bills. It saps a man's energy, takes away from his pleasure, and eventually even destroys his confidence in himself. That's why so many Atlantans have been gratified to find a business-like solution to their personal finance problems through a good, sound loan—a loan which enables them to get rid of nagging bills at once, with the prospect of repaying that loan in small, spread-out monthly amounts.

Such loans can be quickly and easily secured by almost any person with a job, from the Southern Security and Investment Company, located on the 4th floor of the 22 Marietta Street Building. Friendly confidential advisers can help arrange a loan of from $50 to $1,000 with plain note, endorsement, car, furniture, or almost anything of value to be accepted as security. Legal interest rates are charged, and loans can usually be refinanced as desired, to provide additional funds.

This is one in a series of advertisements inviting Atlantans to acquaint themselves with the helpful "Southern Security" way of finding quick relief from burdensome debts.

PURELY COINCIDENTAL—That this sign, one of hundreds of gaily-colored ones decking the city in preparation for the Shrine convention here September 12 and 13, should say "Quiet Nobles"—instead of "Welcome Nobles." The smile on the face of the pointing Miss Betty Irvine is a slight indication of how funny Atlantans find the idea of the word "quiet" used in conjunction with a visit from the hilarious Nobles.

Frank, and myself our first lessons in democracy along with our early training as musicians.

Music is the one great international language, and if through music we can create a feeling of universal brotherhood, isn't this just another way to express the ideals of democracy? And that's what being an American means. Here we do not stop to ask a man what his racial antecedents may be—German, French, Italian, Norwegian, English—he is still an American. And so, if a man has a soul for music and learns to love it culturally, his nationality will not matter.

America is a composite of nations and peoples from all over the world who have come to us bringing their racial customs and music—a wealth of beauty. Through the intermingling of their arts they have created a national unity—and music as an international language is an important factor in our civilization.

Centuries ago, music, like art, and the ability to read and write, and other cultural arts belonged principally to the so-called upper classes, but as man's freedoms have grown these gifts have been given to the people. So, loving music as I do, I wanted to show my love and appreciation for all that America has done for me by sharing my music. And so, following in my father's footsteps, I did what I could to make music truly democratic in my adopted land.

If we could teach the people, peoples of all lands, everywhere, that nations must and can work together like the instruments of a great symphonic orchestra, each doing his job in a world that was created for everybody, then we could say, "Peace on earth, good will to men."

U. S. Destroyer Escapes Attack By Submarine

part in a hunt for the submarine was not disclosed by the Navy. It was assumed, however, that if the attack occurred within flying range of Iceland some of the big flying boats took to the air to look for the attacker.

While the attack was the first hostile action against an American warship since the war began, a destroyer has dropped depth bombs in a protective action on at least one other occasion.

Secretary of the Navy Knox told the Senate Naval Affairs Committee on July 11 of this incident. His account, as published by the committee, said:

"One United States destroyer operating off Greenland heard the SOS of a steamer and proceeded to the location and picked up 60 of the survivors of the steamer."

Three Charges Dropped.

"While engaged in this act of mercy, the operator of the listening equipment reported to the captain that he thought he heard a submerged submarine. The captain immediately turned toward the direction indicated and dropped three depth charges."

"In doing this, he very prudently exercised the right of self-preservation, for had there been a submarine there his destroyer might have been sunk."

"There was no other evidence that a submarine was there, and it is quite possible that no submarine was there. The listening equipment might have been deceived by a whale or a large fish, or a cold current, instead of a submarine—something which is frequently experienced."

It was recalled that Adolf Hitler told the world last January 30 that American help to Britain, of which he had traversed the Iceland route, would be of no avail.

"Every Ship... Torpedoed."

The German Fuehrer, in a speech celebrating the eighth anniversary of his accession to power, declared that every possibility that could arise from the war has been considered; that the German people have no quarrel with the American people, and said:

"Let there be no deception about one fact: whoever believes he can help England must at all events know one thing:

"Every ship, with or without convoy, that comes within range of our torpedo tubes will be torpedoed."

But there was no attack on any United States ship—war or merchant—after that address until May 21, when the freighter Robin Moor was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine halfway between Brazil and west Africa. Her crew and passengers were saved, some being landed in Brazil, others in Capetown, Africa.

President Roosevelt on June 20—after the last survivors had been accounted for—declared that the United States was not yielding and "we do not propose to yield" to such acts as the sinking of the Robin Moor.

On July 7, the President an-

Welcome Sign 'Warns' Nobles To Keep Quiet

Remembering Other Parleys, Atlantans Get Laugh From Banner.

The Shriners are coming to town—5,000 of them—and before their two-day visit Friday and Saturday, September 12 and 13, is over, many indulgent Atlantans may wonder if that sign at Marietta and Forsyth streets is just a happenstance.

The sign, one of hundreds of bright-colored emblems and flags decking the downtown section to welcome the visitors, reads: "Quiet Nobles." Instead of "Welcome Nobles."

A traffic sign at the intersection blots out the word "Welcome" and evokes smiles from many passersby who view it from that angle.

According to the program lined up for their visit, the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine are going to make plenty of noise, night and day, from Thursday night to some time around midnight Saturday, irrespective of "quiet" signs.

There will be at least 17 bands and drum corps with the 19 Shrine caravans, half a dozen organizations of chanters and unnumbered Nobles who will organize impromptu quartettes for telling willing and unwilling audiences of how they pine for Sweet Adeline, or of the charms of Sally, who lives down in their alley.

When a Shriner dons his red fez and goes on a pilgrimage to some hospitable oasis, he leaves care and trouble behind and plans on having a happy time, and if he chances to yell his larynx loose in having it, he'll just gargle his throat with salt and water and chalk the discomfort of a sore throat up to the good time he enjoyed with his fellow nobles.

No, it will not be quiet in the downtown section while the Shriners are here. Those who live in the outskirts of the city may be glad they do not reside in a centrally located hotel.

Mexican Troops Stop Strike Riot

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Federal troops, police and firemen, using tear gas, guns and rifle butts, today broke up a demonstration of 3,000 railroad strikers in front of the downtown offices of the National Railways building.

Police reported no arrests but strike leaders said 12 demonstrators were detained.

Police headquarters said 200 policemen, 50 firemen and approximately 100 soldiers joined in suppressing the demonstration.

Some of the demonstrators succeeded in entering the Railways building and smashed furniture.

An attempt to march on the National palace was stopped.

Railway workers in the federal district and adjoining territory ceased work this morning on the grounds that the National Railways was not complying with the terms of their contract. Office workers as well as shop men and train crews are participating.

Street Widening Sought at Dawson

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION

DAWSON, Ga., Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Dawson city council, acting on the advice of C. S. Fain, division engineer of the State Highway Department, met in emergency session here and adopted a resolution asking that the State Highway Board proceed immediately on the widening of Fourth avenue and Pecan street and resurfacing of Main street, within the incorporate limits of Dawson.

Fain was in the city last week and conferred with R. R. Marlin, who has been interested in the project, and members of the city council.

The contemplated work consists of widening the two streets; the laying of five-inch storm sewers and building paved sidewalks; resurfacing of Main street.

The city council appointed a committee composed of Marlin; R. R. Jones, city attorney, and A. B. Hamilton, chairman of the street committee for the city of Dawson, to go to Atlanta and present the matter in detail to the highway board.

announced that United States troops had been landed in Iceland and told congress that this country could not permit Germany to occupy strategic outposts in the Atlantic to be used as air or naval bases for eventual attack against the Western Hemisphere.

Atlantan Remembers Years He Served Aboard the Greer

E. D. McKay Safe in Bed When News Comes of Sub Attack.

Experiences of E. D. McKay, of 327 Josephine street, N. E., were child's play compared with the excitement given the crew of the United States destroyer Greer yesterday when she was attacked by a submarine while carrying mail to United States armed forces stationed in Iceland.

The best thing given McKay during the time he was stationed aboard the ship was simulated warfare in fleet maneuvers.

McKay was on board the Greer from 1931 to 1933 during his eight-year hitch in the Navy. Most of the time he was attached to the Greer she was stationed in the Pacific, he said last night, and when he left the Navy in 1933 she was on the west coast.

"There were times when we cruised without lights during maneuvers," McKay said, "but nothing to compare with this ever happened to us."

Once during maneuvers the Greer was towing a target for aerial bomb practice, McKay said, and one of the bombs fell within 200 feet of the Greer.

"It made quite a splash," he said, "and was the most exciting thing that happened to us during maneuvers."

The target was towed 1,000 feet behind the destroyer and was attacked by dive bombers which were being used by the Navy that early, he declared.

Next to the excitement of war games came storms, but even these weren't serious, he said. There was one near Cuba when the ship was being taken from the Atlantic to the west coast that produced a 35-degree roll in the ship, he said.

The former sailor had gone to bed when news of the attack on the Greer was flashed to the world. The attack stirred memories of his seafaring days and he was a little bit glad he was safe in a land-locked bed, but the light in his eyes made one believe he was a little bit sorry he missed the excitement.

LUCKY—E. D. McKay, of 327 Josephine street, N. E., was safe in his bed here last night when news of the attack on the Greer was released. From 1931 to 1933 he was stationed aboard the ship as a member of the United States Navy.

LOOK FOR THE STRONG PEANUT OILSTAIN

SEARCH FOR PROFESSOR J. E. WHITE, principal of North Fulton High school, has widened to all states of the country, it was disclosed last night at Atlanta police headquarters.

Professor White, believed to be a victim of amnesia, has been missing from his home at 74 Park Circle, N. E., since August 28, and no word has been heard from him, or about him, since that time.

When Professor White was first reported missing by members of his family, Atlanta police and the state highway patrol broadcast descriptions of him over the state.

Later, the "lookout" broadcasts were extended to all the southeastern states, and now, Police Chief Hornsby said, they have been extended to every state in the Union.

The "lookout" notices, signed by Chief Hornsby, give descriptions of the missing man and the automobile in which he was last seen. A note at the end of the "lookout" states: "He may be a victim of amnesia."

Meanwhile, no further developments in the case were reported here or elsewhere.

Government Crying for Men To Fill Jobs Up to $5,600 Year

'Industrial Specialists' Badly Needed in Defense
Buying; Manufacturers Asked To Release
Key Executives for Posts.

Is there anybody present who wants a job with the government—a good job, paying anywhere from $5,600 down to $2,600 a year?

If so, let him drop whatever he is doing immediately and get in touch with O. E. Meyers, fifth district manager of the Civil Service Commission, in his office at 308 New Post Office building, Atlanta.

In other words, Uncle Sam is beating the bushes for men who have had some experience in business—enough to enable them to talk the language of business and to act as liaison men between such government agencies as OPM and the Office of Emergency Management, and the manufacturers with whom these two agencies deal.

Throughout the thirteen civil service districts, "Recruitment Specialists" are busy seeking the men the government needs. Mostly they are the heads of the Schools of Business Administration of the various colleges and universities throughout the district.

Recruitment Specialist.
The recruitment specialist for this district, for instance, is Dean Boyce Martin, of Emory, and here, in his words, is the problem the government is up against:

"Here," says Dean Martin, "is the story in a nutshell. Men are desperately needed in defense agencies of the government—OPM and OEM especially—who have had actual experience in and knowledge of various manufacturing processes.

"Machine tools, ordnance, aircraft and radio are obvious needs, but men are also needed with experience in textiles, paper, printing and publishing, plastics, chemicals, rubber, leather and food products. They are needed for contact work with the manufacturers, general planning, priorities, etc. They will be appointed through civil service without written examinations.

"In addition, accountants and economists are needed.

"The truth is, industry beat the government to the punch. They employed the good men who were available when the emergency began and it's a hard job now to find men enough to fill the government jobs that are open. The government has got to go to business and try to get them to release a man here and there who is vitally needed.

Hardest Job.
"The hardest job, of course, is convincing manufacturing executives that they will be better off in the long run if they will release a key man to the government.

"The argument that seems most effective is that it would be extremely unfortunate for business if these government jobs were filled by men who know nothing about business, or who are definitely second raters. Unless such a man has the point of view of the businessman and understands his problems thoroughly, business will have more headaches than it has now. For the most part, business men have agreed that this point of view was sound, and have helped out in every way they could.

"The fact is, though, the government still needs good men, and needs them now."

The following jobs are open, according to a pamphlet issued recently by the Civil Service Commission. The qualifications may sound pretty rigid on paper, but men are needed so badly, Dean Martin indicated, a liberal interpretation is the general rule now.

Principal Industrial Specialist—$5,600 a year. A principal industrial specialist must have a thorough knowledge of production methods and processes in one or more manufacturing industries. He must have had at least 11 years' experience, indicating he would be able to conduct highly responsible and difficult assignments.

Senior Specialist.
Senior Industrial Specialist—$4,600 a year.
A senior industrial specialist must have had 10 years' experience of the type described above in which his ability to conduct difficult or important work has been demonstrated.

Industrial Specialist—$3,800 a year. An industrial specialist must have had nine years of experience in which he carried out assignments of considerable difficulty under limited general supervision.

Associate Industrial Specialist—$3,200 a year.
An associate industrial specialist must have had seven years' experience, indicating his ability to execute tasks of moderate ability under general supervision.

Assistant Industrial Specialist—$2,600 a year.
Six years of experience, under which ability to conduct work of limited difficulty under close supervision has been demonstrated.

In many instances, education can be substituted for up to four years of experience, and the regulations require that only one year of the required experience must have been obtained in the past 10 years.

Applicants must be under 60 years of age, except when physical examination shows them to be able to perform the work even when over the age limit.

Housing Repairs Here Urged for Defense

Housing repairs in defense areas will be urged by Abner H. Ferguson, federal housing administrator, in a nation-wide broadcast to be heard in Atlanta at 6:30 o'clock tonight over WSB.

In his address Ferguson will encourage the conversion of large dwellings into multiple family dwellings in defense areas.

President Roosevelt has designated Atlanta, Macon, Columbus and Savannah as Georgia cities in a defense area.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad section of The Constitution.

Polio Epidemic On Way Down, Says Official

Only 2 New Cases Here in 2 Weeks; 8 New Ones in State.

Dr. J. F. Hackney, assistant city health officer, reported yesterday that Atlanta has had only two new cases of polio in the past two weeks, and he termed the record "a most encouraging sign."

One other patient has been reported to the city health department, but the victim was known to have contracted the disease in Tennessee. Atlanta has recorded 96 cases since June 1.

"The record of new cases has taken a definite turn toward improvement," Dr. Hackney declared. "We feel that the peak of the epidemic has long since been passed."

Meanwhile, from other sections of the state, eight new cases were reported to the State Health Department.

The new patients are in Catoosa, Chattooga, Dade, Forsyth, Gordon, Polk, Richmond and Wilkinson, with one each.

'Order Number' Has Many Names

Will Riley, clerk at Fulton selective service board No. 9, would like to straighten out registrants on the simple matter of the order number—and what to call it.

Registrants are about to get Riley's number by the varied terminology they use in correspondence with the board.

Some interpretations of "order number" he has received recently are: national number, lottery number, draft number, local number, board number, call number, audit number, ordering number, ordinary number, Army number and just plain number.

Lawyers To Hold Big Party Today

Atlanta Lawyers' Club will hold its annual outing at the Druid Hills Golf Club beginning at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with justices of the supreme court and the court of appeals as guests of honor.

The affair will begin with a golf tournament. Other events will be climaxed by a fish fry scheduled at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

According to Ellis McClelland, arrangement committee chairman, approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the frolic. All courts will be closed at the time and the non-jury division is expected to close in order for members to attend.

Drill, Parade Set By Soldiers, Bands

A drill and retreat parade with the Fort McPherson reception center band, soldiers at the post, and the Boys Drum and Bugle Corps of Greater Miami will be held, beginning at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, on the post drill field, Colonel Stephen Winfree, commandant, announced yesterday.

The program is being given for the public to honor the Drum and Bugle Corps, now on a tour of several military posts in the southeast.

The visiting corps includes 110 boys and nine majorettes, and has won several national musical contests in addition to making frequent broadcasts over the networks.

'Never-Bitten' Expert Fanged by Snake Here

Young Wallace White Jr., of 145 Graham street, S. W., amateur ophologist, was recovering last night from a snake bite and a serious case of embarrassment.

He was talking to a first-aid class on how to handle snakes without being bitten. Coiled in his hand was a yellow rat-snake. Someone in the audience asked, "But don't you ever get bitten?" Just as he turned to say, "Why, no," the snake lunged and bit him underneath the right eyelid.

Standards Too High, Asserts Welfare Officer

J. A. Boatright Says Federal Regulations Hinder Merit System.

Full functioning of a merit employment system in the State Welfare Department will be delayed at least four or five years, J. A. Boatright, supervisor of examinations, said yesterday, unless the federal government consents to reduce the qualifications required of employees.

Standards of experience and education for some classifications of employees, he said, were "too severe to be met by the people of the state." Particularly is this true, he added, of the amount and the type of social welfare training required.

Boatright said two technical aides of the Federal Social Security Board arrived yesterday and would begin today to attempt to work out adjustments in the minimum qualifications of job applicants. In this way, he said, he hoped to make more persons eligible to stand the new merit examinations tentatively scheduled for October.

First examinations for job applicants were conducted by the department last November. Boatright said between 2,000 and 3,000 persons who applied were not even qualified to stand the tests, and recent grading of the papers showed that many applicants failed the examinations, including about 50 per cent of those seeking positions as county welfare directors.

As a result, registers from which to draw employees proved inadequate for most job classifications and the new tests have been ordered. "But," said Boatright, "it's no use to keep calling new examinations if the standards are so high that most applicants are eliminated before they even start."

Unless a revision is made, he said, not enough registered applicants will be available for the system to function fully.

Carolina Soldier Commits Suicide

FORT BENNING, Ga., Sept. 4. (INS)—Despondent over financial troubles, Private Jim J. Peace, headquarters detachment third battalion, 68th Armored Regiment, Fort Benning, a native of Greer, S. C., shot himself to death today at the fort.

The verdict of suicide was returned by officers following an inquiry. A .45 calibre pistol and a note reading "My troubles will soon be over" were found beside the body.

Senate Votes Wider Spread For Income Tax

46 Millions Knocked From Committee's Revenue Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. (AP)—The senate voted 43 to 23 today to raise an estimated $303,000,000 by broadening the tax base and then knocked about $46,000,000 out of its finance committee's revenue bill by refusing to increase house-approved taxes on amusements.

Keeping up yesterday's swiftly paced consideration of the record-breaking bill, the senate acted promptly on a half dozen amendments, including the controversial proposal to reduce present personal income tax exemptions from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single individuals.

The latter amendment was vigorously opposed by Senators La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, and Clark, Democrat, Missouri, who contended that the higher taxes should be levied on those profiting from defense because congress dug deeper into pockets of low income earners.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, of the finance committee, declared, however, that the reduction in exemptions was designed to lay a foundation for an "equitable tax program." He added that when the great majority of the people become taxpayers, "they will write their own tax bill."

Thirty-four Democrats and nine Republicans voted for the lower exemptions while 13 Democrats, nine Republicans and one Progressive were recorded in opposition. Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, protested in vain that the change would be discriminatory because it reduced existing exemptions only $50 for single individuals while cutting them $500 for married persons.

R. L. Berry Killed At Villa Rica

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. VILLA RICA, Ga., Sept. 4.—R. L. Berry, about 70-years old, local farmer and property owner, was almost instantly killed here this afternoon when the mowing machine on which he was riding down the Bankhead highway toward his home, two miles west of town, was struck by a cotton truck, driven by a man who gave the name of John C. Muarray, of Oneonta, Ala.

Mr. Berry was knocked from the mowing machine and badly lacerated. He was rushed to the Community hospital here, but died within a few minutes after arrival. At Carrollton tonight, Sheriff B. B. Kilgore said he was holding Murray in jail there, pending a hearing on the accident tomorrow. He said the truck driver was carried to Carrollton by the state patrol.

Mr. Berry is survived by his wife, who is assistant postmaster at Villa Rica; one daughter, Miss Eleanor Berry, of Atlanta; two sons, Lieutenant R. L. Berry, Jr., a medical officer at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Corporal William L. Berry in service at Orlando, Fla.

What of Japan?

Gladstone Williams in his column, "Washington Parade," is optimistic over the chances for peace with Japan, citing reasons why official Washington feels the tension has lightened. Mr. Williams, while bolstered by the weight of this official opinion, may be entirely too sanguine.

The first and most important factor which may contradict this optimism is that of "face." To an Oriental mind this is more important than life itself. This government has made it plain there will be no appeasement of Japan, and its announced policy is to condemn any attempt to dominate another country by force. Any settlement in the Far East, then, would be based upon withdrawal of Japan from China, intolerable from the Japanese viewpoint and impossible for any government which wished to continue in office.

A second factor is the particular ill-grace with which the chief spokesman for the Japanese army chose memorial services to the 100,000 dead of the 1923 earthquake, which virtually razed Tokyo, to condemn the United States. This disaster marked one of the greatest relief efforts ever expended by the American people to succor the stricken of a foreign land. Millions of dollars, both in cash and supplies, were poured into Japan to aid in the feeding of the homeless, the care of the injured and the reconstruction of homes and other buildings. The speech is only too evidently a studied insult.

A third factor is that the Japanese government is a structure dependent upon the support of the violently militaristic army high command. And the government in turn has shown it has virtually no control over that army. Whatever agreement the civilian government might enter into would be as worthless as one made with Hitler, whenever the army chose to ignore it. Any such agreement would be simply and purely a Far Eastern Munich and any tendency to view it in any other light is extremely dangerous. It merely would postpone the evil day until one which Japan might select.

Japan is backing water at the moment. This is solely because her partner in crime, Germany, is finding it hard going in Russia and because the attention of the British and the United States can more easily be concentrated on the Far East. We have witnessed a series of these maneuvers by Japan. Strike and lie low. Strike again. So at the moment Japan is very peaceful and the civilian government seeks to appease other governments and to bleed of peaceful motives.

But the moment this country and Great Britain became heavily involved, the knife would strike again and the next blow would be very, very serious. Japan has gone as far as the democracies can permit without grave danger to their vital supplies and lifelines. The democracies today hold the upper hand. To maintain it, Japan must be brought to heel, whether voluntarily or by force. The democracies in their own cold interest must contain Japan so strongly she cannot strike.

During a wind of tornado force, the sky over the southwestern range country was filled with large objects—probably guitars.

Macon Seeks Quiet

The campaign against noise planned by Macon civic leaders may strike a note of irrelevancy in days of war. But the drive will be aimed against needless noises, those varied, but terrible, sounds in the night and day that jar the nerves and make even the most hard-grained individual long for the tumult and the shouting to die completely and unalterably.

The Maconites plan the anti-noise campaign as a national defense measure, and in doing so bring out their best selling point for the effort. They maintain, and rightly so, that needless noises impair the efficiency of persons busy on defense projects, in addition to persons engaged in other work, to say nothing of Mr. Ordinary Citizen, the man who never seems to get a break, whose work and whose rest is disturbed.

That the Maconites mean business is seen in the fact that behind the drive are civic leaders and members of the Chamber of Commerce's health and sanitation committee, many of whom have met already to discuss the plan and to prepare to enlist aid of city officials. They deserve co-operation and good luck.

By now, no doubt, the returned Axis consul has described the American $1.25 table d'hôte dinner to the home folks, who are wondering, "Why hasn't someone told us these things?"

The Invisible House

Army engineers have announced their intention to make 20 new buildings as nearly invisible as possible, as an example in wartime camouflage to factories and military establishments. The buildings will be constructed at Fort Belvoir, Va., near Washington, at a cost of $2,540,000 and will house the engineer board, one of whose important functions is to develop and test camouflage methods.

Plans for the buildings are intriguing. Every structure will have a flat roof painted or otherwise treated to blend with the surrounding landscape. Railway tracks and service roads will wind rather than take a straight course. As few trees as possible will be cut down. Buildings will be distributed so that no two will be in line. Two will be windowless and completely air-conditioned. All other buildings will have small windows with provision for blackout shutters.

First it was the invisible man, a figment of the imagination. Now it is the invisible house, also attributable to the imagination. But what a world of difference between the kind of imagination which envisaged the "man" and the motivating factor behind the envisioning! The "man" was purely for fiction purposes, solely for entertainment. He was created on paper only that lovers of the fanciful in reading might have escape from the cares of every day. Not so with the invisible house. These are being created with no view to entertainment. Rather, they are being constructed as necessities for defense against grim enemies. The contrast furnishes a sad commentary on this present world we live in.

The visiting Duke of Kent prefers Bourbon to Scotch, he says, which is very tactful of him, as long as he stays out of the how-to-make-a-jeep controversy.

Blackmailed "Volunteers"

The fantastic lengths to which Hitler is going to obtain "volunteers" for the fight against Russia is demonstrated in the blackmail offered by the Nazis to induce Frenchmen to join the Legion of French Volunteers.

All relatives of men in the organization who now are held in prison camps will be released, it was announced officially.

The Germans have run into serious trouble inducing men of the conquered lands to join in the battle now raging along the eastern border. Spain has sent a few men, the first contingent of French volunteers is en route to training camps, but there is little word of enlistments in the other countries—Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Greece. The slave states, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria naturally could supply regular troops, although at that there has been precious little mention of Bulgaria. This last country has many ties with Russia, and the army is probably heavily suspect.

So the German campaign to "rid Europe of Communism" is bogging down. The democratic spirit of the conquered countries is far from dead. The omens are good.

A new statistical table, prepared by Washington, is captioned "Food and Nonfood Living Costs." We recall that nonfood well, in many a ye olde tea room.

Then there was the discouraged large taxpayer who thought of picking up a used station wagon and becoming shabby genteel.

(From The Brunswick News.)

There were two items in last week's news which were of such parallel nature that the temptation to link them is too strong to be denied. In Atlanta the Governor declared that if Georgia colleges are dropped from the accredited list—and there is a strong possibility that they will be—professors in the state university system would be paid only half salaries "because then they won't be worth as much."

In Paris, France, the Nazis seized and imprisoned thousands of Frenchmen in retaliation for the slaying of a German officer. With their customary beastly contempt for justice and human rights, the Germans made thousands of innocents pay for the act of one individual.

Governor Talmadge would do the same. If, because of gubernatorial meddling, Georgia colleges lose their accredited standing, the salaries of our professors are to be shaved. The educators must pay for the crime of the Governor. Of course, if any salary slashing is done, in the name of justice, it should be against the party which brought about the situation. But the Governor makes no mention of cutting his pay check in two, although obviously he is the guilty party.

Just as thousands of Frenchmen are now suffering for the act of one individual, so too are thousands of Georgians suffering from the acts of the Governor. He has imperiled our educational system and has held us up to national ridicule. He has utterly disregarded the rights of others and enforced his will upon an unwilling public. Those who refuse to be his puppets are chased from the positions on trumped-up charges. Newspapers which dare raise their voice in protest of his dictatorship are called "lying" publications and threatened with the withdrawal of state news.

Georgia, thank God, is not France, but some of the things which are happening here can and are happening in France.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

ANOTHER WHEELERISM WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Under the guise of having the Interstate Commerce Committee, of which he is chairman, consider a resolution seeking senate authority for an investigation of alleged pro-war propaganda activities of the moving picture industry, Senator Wheeler, of Montana, has been guilty of another questionable maneuver to promote the aims of his isolationist group.

Without waiting for the senate to act on the resolution, the Montana isolationist has referred the measure to a hand-picked subcommittee of five members of his Interstate Commerce body, a privilege falling to him as chairman. Four of the five members of the personally selected subcommittee are rank isolationists, the same as himself.

Worse still, outside of himself the four hand-picked isolationists include the bitterest critics of the administration's foreign policy found on the full committee. So brazen is the move on the face of things that the only wonder is that he did not go the whole way and draw upon the isolationists for all five places.

IGNORES SENATE Now it develops that the subcommittee is to proceed with the proposed investigation of the movie industry just as though it had been formally ordered by the senate, which has not yet been given an opportunity to vote on the resolution. Already representatives of the industry have been notified to appear before the group in Washington. There is not the slightest doubt of the purpose of the Wheeler-dominated group to leave a smear wherever possible.

Ordinarily the procedure followed in cases of the kind calls for a resolution of inquiry to be considered quietly by the committee to which it was referred, after which a report is filed with the senate recommending or disapproving the requested investigation. The senate acts on the resolution before the inquiry is begun.

Senator Wheeler evidently sensed that the investigation would never be authorized by the senate, so took a highly questionable shortcut cut to accomplish the same purpose. If the movie producers respond to his subcommittee's summons, the effect of the hearings will be to permit an investigation of much the same scope of one formally ordered.

FURTHER TAINT The procedure is further tainted with suspicion by the fact that the investigating resolution was sponsored by another leading isolationist, Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri. Wheeler, Clark and Nye, the three wheelchairs of the isolationist bloc, have been loud in their accusations against the motion picture industry.

It all bears the earmarks of a carefully concocted scheme for circumventing the rules of the senate under the guise of having a subcommittee give preliminary consideration to something proposed but unauthorized. Vice President Wallace evidently did not suspect a trick or he might have defeated the maneuver by referring the Clark resolution to some other committee having a chairman friendly to the administration.

Wheeler and his isolationist cohorts don't like the movie industry as the lampooning the producers have given Hitler and Mussolini, who have been portrayed as black-hearted villains guilty of totalitarian aggression that challenges the American way.

Also they have found fault with the manner in which the producers, often with government co-operation, have dramatized the Army and the Navy, our air forces, and the defense industrial expansion program. Finally, they have not been pleased with the action of the industry in glorifying British war efforts.

There may be a certain amount of propaganda in all of this, but if there is it certainly coincides with our accepted government policy of anti-Hitlerism.

WHAT HAYS SAYS The weight of argument seems to be on the side of the producers as reflected in the statement of Will Hays, czar of the industry, that "no freedom is secured if the motion picture industry is to be kept under the thumb of the censor, what the air carries, what the magazines serve up to their readers, what book publishers present in current literature, or what the living stage portrays."

What's more, the public seems to like it—which is the success formula followed by Hollywood in determining the type of entertainment served up to the public.

By some supreme quirk of ego, both Wheeler and Nye have indicated they felt ignored in the past when the movies failed to give them as much attention in the newsreels as President Roosevelt commands in presenting his anti-isolationist views. Herein may lie the motivating influence behind the investigation move.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Prices in Canada.

We found, during our recent Canadian vacation, that prices there are, on the whole, lower than in the United States. This may be encouraging to those who have feared inflation of currency in this country, as a result of the war. Canada has been at war for two years.

In the first place, there is a 10 per cent difference in the value of U. S. and Canadian dollars. You get $1.10 in Canadian money for every $1.00 of U. S. money. That gives you a leeway to begin with.

Of course we didn't make any statistical comparisons, but our impression was that prices in restaurants were somewhat lower in Canada than in the U. S. That is, even after you've gotten the 10 per cent exchange advantage. You can get good food, in an equally attractive restaurant, for less Canadian money in Canada than you'll pay in U. S. money on this side of the line.

A somewhat cursory survey of shop windows and department store window letters left me with the impression that prices for everyday things, say $25 suits of clothes and $3.50 shoes, for instance, are about the same in both countries. But, if you want really good clothes, it seemed to me that imported English tweeds, for instance, I'd say are approximately 25 per cent lower there. All this is in addition, mind you, to your 10 per cent exchange gain.

I noticed a display of Royal Doulton chinaware. A piece that I know would be priced at about $10 in Atlanta could be bought in Montreal for $6.

I was waiting for some members of my family in a large Toronto department store and, to kill time, strolled into the men's shoe department. Those extra good, English made, hand-sewn shoes that cost here $12 to $15 a pair, were priced at $7 or thereabouts.

Anxious To Please.

Everyone we saw in Canada seemed extremely anxious to please any and all visitors from the States. It helps their cause, of course, to build up dollar exchange on this side of the line.

They give you that 10 per cent extra on everything you buy, even where stores, restaurants, banks, filling stations, all make it a point to see you get the proper rate of exchange.

In order to help in the conservation of gasoline, local people cannot get gas on credit, any more. All sales must be cash. But to the visitor, with a United States license tag on his car, there is all the gas he needs, charged on his credit card.

Customs and immigration authorities are no trouble at all. Just a routine registration of your car, a glance at its occupants, a smile and you are on your way.

The Canadian police are swell. A little different from our fellows, to be sure. They wear those high helmets, for instance. And all the traffic police have gloves spotted white, more visible as they direct traffic.

They go in for horse-mounted police instead of motorcycle boys.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The opinions expressed by Mr. Pegler in this column are his own and do not necessarily represent the opinion of The Atlanta Constitution.

Rights of Workers

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—"On this day—this American holiday," said President Roosevelt in his Labor Day address, "we are celebrating the rights of free laboring men and women."

Now, of course, the President was challenging Hitlerism and he certainly did lay it on the line, but at the same time he was pointedly ignoring a more imminent menace to the "rights of free laboring men and women" which has been fostered by his government for eight years and more at home. Not one word was uttered by the President or William Green or any other orator of the day about the betrayal of millions of American workers into the hands of men who forbid them to work at their lawful occupations according to the right of free men, even in the interests of national defense, unless they submit to the rule or private groups which often are vicious, brutal and shockingly corrupt and unless they pay taxes into the treasury of an irresponsible invisible government.

The record of this betrayal may be found in the testimony taken by the Dies committee and other committees of congress and in the back numbers of these dispatches and the revelations, for the most part, have not even been disputed, much less refuted. And President Roosevelt's own national government has not only ignored its duty to protect these persecuted and exploited millions but has actively hunted and herded them into bondage. And, with a cynicism that would do credit to Hitler, himself, this government has had the effrontery to speak of this betrayal as "labor's gains."

Mocking Words

If these and other mocking declarations of the day, masking some sly political intent, can only be surmised, had been qualified by any warning to the union leaders, Gauleiters and Brown Shirts, it would have been possible to hope that, in time, the government would remember the forgotten and trampled rights of free American men and women. Instead, however, the President and every other speaker in this festival of the bosses pretended to be utterly unaware of the oppression and robbery of the workers and of the cancellation of their right to set forth in the very Wagner act, itself, to bargain collectively through agents of their own choosing.

Only a few days before, the national government had seized a great highway to end a strike and uphold a union's demand that workers be forbidden to repudiate another bargaining agent and select another. And, for a year before the national government had permitted racketeers to station guards and licensed extortioners at defense works to steal millions of dollars from those whom the President now, almost tauntingly, described as "free laboring men and women" in a vast, undisguised shake-down.

Of course, all interest is turned on war jobs, but the right of the American worker to have and hold a job in the normal business of the country is more important in a way, because it comes first. Defense and war will be always be the principal concern of the United States, and even before the emergency came free workers were suffering the same exploitation and denial of their rights in the fulfillment of a very apparent political understanding between the government and the union leaders.

In Times Of Peace

When peace comes will it be a man must join a union and obey the whims and serve the political ambitions of the union bosses as a condition prior to employment? That seems to be the plan, for that side of affairs was being imposed wherever the issue arose in private industry long before Hitler made this war.

"The task of defeating Hitler," which the President mentioned in those words, is not a private obligation of the union bosses whom the President flattered so. It is everybody's fight and it is pathetic that a President should have to beg the unionists not to sabotage the national defense. But if the reward for winning this fight is to be enslavement under native Nazis and Communists, operating under union charters with the force of the government behind them, free Americans will surely have an uneasy feeling that they are being sold out in the rear as they face the foreign enemy.

"He has abolished trade unions as ruthlessly as he has persecuted religion," the President said of Hitler, ignoring the fact that here at home the unions, with his powerful assistance, have abolished the rights of free Americans, employees and employers alike, and have only begun to exert their undisputed, ruthless power.

"There has never been a moment in our history," the President said, "when Americans were not ready to stand up as free men and fight for their rights."

May it please God that the President of the United States and the union politicians will take those words to heart not make it necessary for Americans to act upon them.

Word Stories

By W. Worthington Wells

Do you "put an end to" everything you do or say, or do you "stop," "quit," "bring to a close," or just simply run out?

There is a little word in the English language designed to relieve some of the embarrassment of using the trite colloquialisms shown above. That word is TERMINATE.

Terminate is a verb pronounced TER-mi-nate with the accent on the first syllable. The first syllable is pronounced to rhyme with her.

Terminate means to stop, bring to a close, quit, cease, end, etc.

ONE WORD MORE

(While Ralph McGill is on vacation, his column is being written by guest authors. Today Anna Aiken Patterson, chairman of courses in training of the American Women's Voluntary Services, is the guest conductor.)

WOMEN VOLUNTEERS With a growing sense of urgency Atlanta women are mobilizing for defense. Each day new volunteers enroll under the banner of American Women's Voluntary Services. Each week new recruits start training to meet the national emergency.

The training is serious and often arduous, but these women "can take it." They are the same women who in ordinary times manage their homes, supervise their children, participate in civic enterprises, work for community interest, and find both pleasure and satisfaction in busy lives. They are the same women who have made places for themselves in business and professional ranks; the same who staff the schools and offices; the same whose enterprise and talents are finding expression in business, commerce, industry, and the fine arts.

1,173 ON ROLLS In short, the roster of volunteers is a cross-section of Atlanta's woman power. The local unit of AWVS lists 1,173 volunteers and the registrations continue at headquarters in the Georgian Terrace, and at special AWVS desks in Davison's and Rich's.

Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker brought the Atlanta organization of American Women's Voluntary Services into being. During the weeks she spent here while her famous flying husband was convalescing, Mrs. Rickenbacker was telling the story of AWVS, organized 19 months ago by Mrs. Alice T. McLean.

The gallant women of Britain were Mrs. McLean's inspiration. When the British government called upon the women of Great Britain to unite for national service, Mrs. McLean was in England. When Lady Reading formed the Women's Voluntary Services, welding women of the British Isles into a driving force that is proving itself a tremendous factor on the home front, Mrs. McLean worked with Lady Reading throughout months of grinding effort in the face of tragedy.

BACK IN AMERICA Back to America then Mrs. McLean came, certain of the work she must do. She simply told the story of what she had seen, what she had helped to do in mobilizing the women of that island fortress. She told of the bulwark the WVS formed on Britain's home front.

Her words fell upon ears ready to hear; her story moved hearts already torn by the suffering of civilian women and children; her plan for the mobilization of American women along the lines of Britain's WVS crystallized. The American Women's Voluntary Services was organized.

Among the first to join that group of far-seeing, far-thinking American women was Mrs. Eddie Rickenbacker. Through close association with Mrs. McLean, she knew the plan, purpose and operation from the ground up. She was in the midst of work in national headquarters of AWVS when Captain Rickenbacker's airplane crash brought her to Atlanta.

ATLANTA UNIT FORMED And here she carried on. Before she left with the captain for New York, Mrs. Rickenbacker had the immense satisfaction of seeing Atlanta women rally to a call for organization. The Atlanta unit of AWVS was formed and Mrs. Trammell Scott was literally drafted to head the unit.

With tireless energy Mrs. Scott has kept on the job. Surrounding herself with strong committees, delegating work to those not only eager but qualified to build the unit into a trained force competent to serve in the national emergency, she is inspiring others as Mrs. Rickenbacker inspired her; as Mrs. McLean inspired Mrs. Rickenbacker; as Lady Reading's example had inspired Mrs. McLean.

Training classes are so arranged that women engaged in daytime jobs elsewhere may enroll in evening classes; for women whose duties at home preclude evening classes the program provides daytime instruction.

Each volunteer may choose from the "elective" courses the particular service for which she is best fitted, but all must take the preparedness course. It is what its name implies—a series of highly informative talks, each by an expert in his field, dealing with defense problems and what has been done to meet those needs.

COMPETENCE MUST BE PROVED After completing the preparedness course comes specialized training. Not a desultory program; far from it. Qualified instructors teach the classes; assignments must be fulfilled; tests must be met; competence for service must be proved. At this moment there is a strong probability that AWVS volunteers may see service with the Civilian Defense Corps in forthcoming Army maneuvers. Colonel Job has called upon Mrs. Scott for 350 office-trained volunteers to serve in filter centers of Aircraft Warning Service. More than half the required number already have registered at 203 Chamber of Commerce building in response to Colonel Job's call.

This is the first call upon the Atlanta unit from the Civilian Defense Corps. The AWVS regards that opportunity for service as a privilege. It is directly in line with the assurance given the national headquarters of AWVS by Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, when he endorsed the American Women's Voluntary Services in his capacity as director of Civilian Defense for the United States, and promised that he would shortly give the volunteers an opportunity for service.

Colonel Job's call is the fulfillment of Mayor LaGuardia's promise. It will be the duty and privilege of AWVS volunteers to prove the value of such co-ordination as Mayor LaGuardia envisioned that Colonel Job needs, and that Mrs. Scott confidently expects of the Atlanta unit.

He May Absorb Good Manners, But He Must Build Good Character

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A sixteen-year-old murderer recently escaped capital punishment because his environment had given him little opportunity or encouragement to become a good citizen.

In what degree, then, is any one of us responsible for his behavior?

It is conceded that mental cripples are not responsible. And there is increasing evidence that many young criminals are incurably vicious because their brains were injured at birth or by hereditary disease.

But what of the normal youngsters who "go wrong" because they grew up in the wrong kind of atmosphere? If they could have been saved, what did they need which their environment failed to supply?

All experience has shown that adults need something more than their own will to keep them out of mischief. They need high ideals and fine models to imitate; they need to covet their world's good opinion and fear its censure; but most of all they need the discipline that all of us would be ornery if we could live well without working and enjoy the good opinion of our fellows without doing anything to deserve it.

What is true of adults in this respect is doubly true of youngsters whose characters are not yet seasoned. They are people, too—a fact we often forget.

They need the support of discipline. They need work and responsibility to develop a sense of duty. And they need to feel the lash of scorn if they evade their duty, or refuse to carry their part of the load, or whine about the inevitable.

If a "fair chance" meant a soft snap, only the children of the rich could develop into fine people.

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

"Rather a tight squeeze, isn't it? Every time you cram it on my foot—my hat pops off!"

Dudley Glass

Press Huddleston, veteran real estate editor, talked to the Atlanta Real Estate Board a few days ago and brought up among other matters the subject of contracts.

As an example he produced facsimiles of a contract drawn and signed by George Washington in 1787, when the Father of His Country was devoting some attention to making Mount Vernon pay as a farm project. The other party thereto was one Philip Bates.

Interest among the audience centered largely in clauses of the contract relative to the use of stimulants by said Bates, who was to serve one year as gardener on the Washington estate.

It is specified that said Bates "shall not at any time suffer himself to be disgusted with liquor—except on the times hereafter mentioned."

Remuneration, besides food, lodging and clothing, is set out as: "Four dollars at Christmas with which he may be drunk four days and nights. Two dollars at Easter to effect the same purpose. Two dollars at Whitsuntide, to be drunk two days. A dram in the morning and a drink of grog at dinner or at noon."

Rum and other "spirits" were cheaper in those days, else said Philip Bates would have had a hard time stretching his four dollars into a four-day spree.

Canned Gravy
Glory be! And three hosannas! News story says New Yorkers can buy gravy in cans. For a dime. I'm going to shop around our super groceries.

"A book of verses underneath the bough"—except I'm not out over verses except those of Ollie Reeves and Ogden Nash's—"a jug of wine"—and the only wine care for is sparkling Burgundy which doesn't come in jugs—"and thou!"

The late lamented Omar Khayyam doesn't mention gravy. A native of Persia—now on the newspaper maps as Iran—he probably didn't know about gravy. Poor devil!

I am acquainted with a restaurant secret—that the packing houses put out gravy in five-gallon cans. Which is why I have stopped ordering an extra side order of gravy. I've tried it. I wonder if this 10-cent-a-can gravy tastes like gravy or like beef hide with the hair left on. If I can find out who sells it I'm going to tackle it—one can only.

Because you can talk about turkey white meat or chicken breast—I prefer the livers—and the fine crimson tissues of a Brooks county ham—

But after all the real flavor of the banquet is in the gravy. Rich brown gravy from a lamb roast; thick, gorgeous cream gravy of fried chicken; red, thin, aromatic gravy of a country ham. On grits.

If this canned gravy is all it's cracked up to be my problem is solved for the next time the Mistress of the Manor deserves me.

Ready-made biscuits may be bought at any grocery. If this news is true, one can obtain canned gravy—it doesn't say which kind, but all are good. An oven for the biscuits, a little stewpan for the gravy!

"Get away from here, dog! This is too good for you."

Autumn Problem
This is about the time of the year when the immediate problem of life is: Buy a new straw hat, have the old one cleaned or take up the barehead habit until Halloween.

Poor little rich girl has been elected Glamour Girl of 1941-42 by patrons of a New York "club." How proud she must have been to come home to mamma at the break of dawn to announce: "I'm the Bar Room Queen of Broadway."

The old horse and buggy didn't get you there so swiftly—but old-timers can't remember a year when the horse had to stay in the stable because it was hayless Sunday.

New regulation demanding big first payment in installment plan buying is likely to cut sales of items above $3.68. Isn't it odd that a man who has never succeeded in saving up a hundred bucks in cash can buy a car or a house and meet the payments as regularly as clockwork?

Railroad Workers Given New Posts
Personnel changes in the traffic department of Southern Railway System were announced yesterday as follows:

Appointed district freight agents—Harris L. Bondurant at Atlanta, Ga.; A. G. Shook at Miami, Fla.; Virgil T. Ivey at Macon, Ga.; Ernest C. Brown at Huntsville, Ala.

Appointed district freight and passenger agents—L. E. Summerrow at Tampa, Fla.; Robert C. Courtney at Little Rock, Ark.; Charles C. Correll at Shreveport, Louisiana.

Appointed commercial agents—Clyde C. Cox, New Orleans, La.; Emmett G. Griffith, Memphis, Tenn.; James F. Lessig, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Thomas H. Kidd, Augusta, Ga.; and William T. Shively, Miami, Fla.

These changes were occasioned by the retirement of H. F. Phipps, district freight and passenger agent at Tampa, Fla., after 32 years service, and W. J. Cartwright, commercial agent at Chattanooga, Tenn., who had been in continuous service for 44 years.

School Aid Sought In Defense Saving
A movement to get every child in the public schools of Georgia to purchase a 10-cent defense saving stamp each, as a part of the school's long-range thrift program and to get the active participation of children in the defense program, was launched by Arthur Cheatham, deputy administrator of defense savings bonds, yesterday.

Cheatham discussed the importance of having school superintendents, principals and teachers co-operate with the Treasury Department's program of defense savings at a meeting of 110 teachers and supervisors at the city hall yesterday morning. He spoke at the invitation of M. E. Coleman, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools.

Mrs. R. A. Long, state president of the Parent-Teacher Association, has assured Administrator Marion Allen of her co-operation in the program, Cheatham said.

Pay for Draftees Figured at $6,224
W. R. Waldrop, clerk at Fulton selective service board No. 7, is convinced selectees in Uncle Sam's Army are not doing so badly at $21 a month.

Waldrop, a World War veteran, figures the soldier's benefits during his first year of training amount to $6,224—or more than $518 a month.

The ordinary private, he points out, gets $21 a month for the first four months, then is raised to $30. This amounts to $324 in cash for a year. Board and clothes are figured at $900.

Add this to $5,000 which Waldrop says is the value of peacetime veterans' benefits in hospitalization for the rest of the soldier's life, and old-age pensions, and the total is $6,224.

FSA Urges Legumes as Soil Builder

Agent Says Farmers Can Enrich Land With Changed Program.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 4. (P)—The Farm Security Administration reported today that low-income farm families on the FSA program in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Florida have been spending more for commercial fertilizer than for clothing, education, recreation and church contributions.

In connection with the report, the FSA issued a call to small farmers of the southeast to aid the national defense program and at the same time raise their living standards by using less commercial fertilizer and more natural products for soil enrichment.

Commenting on an FSA survey in the four states, Frate Bull, regional chief of farm management, said "farmers in the south have become slaves to commercial fertilizer."

The Department of Agriculture has warned of an impending shortage of nitrates because of defense needs and is campaigning for increased planting of legumes to be plowed under for soil enrichment.

Bull said the survey showed FSA families spend about $5,500,000 a year for commercial fertilizer, about half of which goes to purchase nitrogen.

A statement from FSA declared that vetch or Austrian winter peas making only a fair growth adds nitrogen equal to that contained in 200 pounds of nitrate of soda for which FSA families have been paying $3.25 to $3.50.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE COUNTRY CHURCH.

Continuing the discussion of the country church from yesterday's column, let me quote a significant letter from a south Georgia farmer.

"I was greatly encouraged to read your column in the Morning News (Savannah) the other day in which you made an appeal for the country church. At first I was almost surprised that the paper would publish a column about the rebuilding of the country life of Georgia. That is splendid. One girl writes: 'I am so glad to see your column in The Constitution about the country church. We are trying to raise enough money right now to paint our meeting house, inside and outside, and build some Sunday school rooms, and we have nearly enough in the bank already. We have all had a part in raising this money, and I am so happy that I could give a part of the money I made this summer, picking beans and taking care of the hens while my brother is in the Army. If the grown people will help us, we young people will rebuild our country churches and bring them back to the place of service which they filled when there wasn't anything but country churches in Georgia.'

And here is a paragraph from a businessman in Columbus:

"Thanks for your column in the Ledger about the country church. I was pleased to see your suggestion that those of us who were raised in country churches and now live in the cities can help in this vital matter of sending contributions back to the leaders in the country churches with which to repair their buildings, paint them inside and outside, plant shrubbery in the yards, repair the cemetery fence, and place fitting signs on the buildings so that passersby will know that the people in that community have churches of which they are justly proud. I am today mailing a check to my dear old country church, and I hope other city-dwellers who were brought up in some fine old country church will follow your suggestion."

Suppose every city-dweller in Georgia who was raised in some country church could do just what this Columbus man has done. Not all such people, perhaps, are able to send a check, but most of us could; and all of us could at least write a letter back to the friends in the old country church, expressing interest in its continued ministry and the purpose to help in any way we may.

I am most encouraged by the letters from the young people in the country churches. They recognize the essential ministry of the church, and they say they are willing to throw themselves into the rebuilding of the country life of Georgia. That is splendid.

One girl writes: "I am so glad to see your column in The Constitution about the country church. We are trying to raise enough money right now to paint our meeting house, inside and outside, and build some Sunday school rooms, and we have nearly enough in the bank already. We have all had a part in raising this money, and I am so happy that I could give a part of the money I made this summer, picking beans and taking care of the hens while my brother is in the Army. If the grown people will help us, we young people will rebuild our country churches and bring them back to the place of service which they filled when there wasn't anything but country churches in Georgia."

What about that? Here is a challenge from the young people in Georgia to every man and woman of us to join hands in strengthening the country church; and I repeat that it is country church is the most important factor in the future life of Georgia. I believe it with all my heart.

Press Parley Turned Into 'Bull' Session

Four 'Wool-Hat' Boys on Hand, Governor Talks of Cattle.

By LUKE GREENE.

Shoving aside some of the major state and national issues of the hour, the Governor yesterday parried questions with reporters at his press conference and drifted off into a discussion of short-horned bulls and the need for growing bigger milk cows.

The apparent reason for this three-ring circus was the fact the chief executive had four paying customers—four staunch supporters from the wool-hat hinterlands—who got a big kick out of hearing the Governor of their state talk about the advantages of a short-horned bull for breeding purposes.

This was typical of what happens when the paying customers are sitting on the sideline at press conferences. The chief executive must make a play for them. He does it by refusing to talk about anything that might lose him a vote, by making fun of all questions flung at him by reporters, by lambasting the newspapers and by giving the visiting wool-hatters some good old-fashioned belly laughs that will make them go away saying "Ole Gene is a card."

Parries Coates Query.
One reporter asked him if there was a possibility he might grant a last-minute stay of execution for Charles Coates, who is slated to die today in the electric chair for the murder of Corporal Fred Black Jr., a state highway patrolman.

"How do you think I know what I'm going to do tomorrow?" he asked. "Do you know what you're going to do tomorrow?"

Queried as to what he thought about current restrictions on installment buying, requiring larger down payments and longer periods for payment, the Governor turned to reporters and asked:

"Ain't that the business of the federal government? Well, then, let the federal government handle it. I got enough trouble running the state of Georgia."

Same Old Story.
That statement within itself was not news. He has said the same thing many times before. But it was repeated with emphasis for the benefit of the paying customers.

Some one asked him whether it was true that stickers were being distributed booming him for the United States senate. He answered indirectly.

"You know, Herman came a-running to me the other day and said, 'Poppa, somebody is putting out stickers running you for the senate, what do you think we ought to do?'"

"Well, I haven't seen one of them stickers myself," the Governor went on, "but I told Herman that anybody could run me for the Czar of Russia or President of the United States so long as I wasn't connected with it."

Visitors Get Laugh.
That tickled the visiting wool-hatters good. They laughed till their hefty mid-sections shook like iron and the blood came rushing to their cheeks.

But so much for this dribble.

The Governor did not want the boys to get bored. So he launched into a discussion of how he was going to Forsyth today to open up a livestock barn. Just another sideline. He's already interested in one or two others.

"Yep, we'll have sheep, goats, bulls—almost anything you want to see out there tomorrow," he said. "You boys ought to come on down. Might get you a good goat. And by the way, you know these short-horned bulls. Well, I'll tell you about them bulls. . . . And so far, far into the day."

"I'll be blamed if I can see how you got a rating as parachute packer!"

A soldier has more energy out-put if he consumes sugar periodically throughout the day rather than large quantities at mealtime. That is the discovery of the University of Minnesota and the Army has evinced its confidence in the university's test by making a change in its type "C" canned field rations.

The ounce of chocolate has now been replaced by five pieces of hard candy, individually wrapped and in assorted flavors. They are issued on the theory that they will not be eaten at meal time but will be consumed from time to time during long marches.

"ATROCITY" CHARGE LAID TO PROPAGANDA

The United States Army is already spreading atrocity propaganda. At least one portion of it, in mock war against another, is spreading some kind of propaganda, according to reports from the Second Army maneuvers in Arkansas.

Lieutenant Irvin G. Shepard, intelligence officer of the First Infantry, was sleeping peacefully when a messenger rushed up, shook him and in an excited, breathless voice told him he carried a message of prime importance.

Lieutenant Shepard opened the envelope to find eight perfect Indian arrowheads with the following message: "Abandoned enemy campsite located on Black river. Strange projectiles discovered and forwarded herewith indicate enemy's resort to inhumane warfare."

Votes for Monkeys?

A voting machine is easy to operate. Even a monkey can pull a handle. But we wouldn't think of letting a monkey vote. He's simply too stupid, too ignorant, to help govern the country.

about what products to buy, where to buy them, how much to pay for them?

Make no mistake about it. If any self-seeking office seeker ever took your NEWSPAPER away from you, or forced your newspaper to print lies and propaganda, you'd be mighty HELPLESS when it came to voting, doing your share of governing the country, being a useful citizen. And if anything happened so your newspapers couldn't run advertisements, you'd be mighty

Now suppose any citizen lived like a hermit for a few years, cut off from every source of truthful, accurate news.

Suppose all he knew of what was going on in the world consisted of lies and propaganda fed to him only by some self-seeking candidate for office.

He'd still be more INTELLIGENT than a monkey. But would he be much better than a monkey when it came to voting, to being a useful citizen?—Would he be much better EQUIPPED than a monkey, from the point of view of information and judgment, to help govern the country?

Where do you get the information that enables you to vote wisely, to be a useful citizen?—Where do you get the FACTS that enable you to live your daily life as you want to—the facts from which you make up your mind

But as long as you HAVE your newspaper, as long as it is FREE to give ALL the news, BOTH sides of every story, NO ONE can force you to "hell"—no phony "dictator" can make a monkey out of you!

Report Shows Milk Boost in Other States

Proposed Increase Here Not Unusual, Says Control Officer.

Charles G. Duncan, director of the State Milk Control Board, yesterday cited milk price increases in other cities as partial justification for a similar increase in Atlanta on which a hearing will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the house of representatives.

The State Milk Board proposes to increase the price of home-delivered milk in Atlanta from 15 to 16 cents a quart. Written protests have been registered by approximately 150 consumers.

Duncan said he had just received information from Chicago that milk prices there had been hiked from 14 cents to 15 1/2 cents. A hearing was held yesterday in Birmingham, Ala., he said, to decide whether milk should go to 16 cents a quart there. A dispatch from St. Louis, Mo., said the price had jumped from 14 to 15 cents there.

The milk board director said he was aware prices of all kinds of foodstuffs were going up and imposing a burden on the workingman, but he said he could not understand why the dairyman should be made to suffer when other producers were getting more for their commodities.

He pointed out if the consumer did not want to pay the increase he could go to the grocery store and get his milk for the same price he is paying now. Milk received from stores is now 14 cents a quart and will be increased to 15 cents under the proposed order.

Duncan indicated he was expecting a large crowd at the hearing today. He said documentary evidence relating to the proposed increase might be filed as late as three days after the hearing, since no decision will be reached until September 16.

New OPM Division Established To Spread Defense Contracts

Odlum Heads Agency; Baruch Calls for Single Administrator, Blanket Ceiling on Prices; Aircraft Deliveries Increase in August.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt created a division of contract distribution in the Office of Production Management tonight to spread defense contracts among smaller plants.

Floyd B. Odlum, of New York, president of Atlas Corporation, large investment firm, was appointed director of the new division.

Mr. Roosevelt issued an order creating the division after a conference with Robert Patterson, undersecretary of war; James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the Navy; William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, codirectors of the OPM, and Chairman Emory S. Land, of the Maritime Commission.

A White House statement said the order was issued "in furtherance of a determined move on the part of the administration to help the smaller business units of the country obtain a fair share of the defense orders, and to prevent, so far as possible, dislocation of industry and unemployment of workers in plants where production has been curtailed by priorities and material shortages."

Has Full Support.

The program, the statement said, has the full support of the Army, Navy, Maritime Commission and OPM.

As the President acted, his whole defense program came under fire of Bernard M. Baruch, one of his chief consultants and head of industrial mobilization in the World War.

Baruch, after detailing his views to the President at a luncheon conference, told reporters that what the defense setup needed was a single administrator and in addition a blanket ceiling over all prices.

The New York financier was severely critical of the administration's reorganized defense priorities and allocations system under a seven-man board headed by Vice President Wallace, and of the piecemeal price control legislation. Meantime, there were these developments elsewhere bearing on the defense program:

The OPM disclosed that 1,854 military aircraft were delivered in August, an increase of 394 over July and the highest monthly total in history. The number of each type and how many were sent to Britain were kept secret.

The War Department announced it would ask Congress for $1,000,000 for more anti-tank weapons and anti-aircraft equipment. It also said that about 5,000 Regular Army, National Guard and Reserve officers would be removed from active duty with troops because of age in a program of improving the general level of fitness of officers.

In still another announcement, the War Department said the Douglas Aircraft Company, of Santa Monica, Cal., had developed two new types of airplanes suitable for transporting parachute troops and cargo. These will be given Army tests shortly.

The White House said the new OPM division headed by Odlum would greatly expand the machinery already put in motion by the Defense Contract Service and Labor Division of OPM to subcontract production orders and to obtain re-employment for discharged workers.

The statement said the new division would have branches in the various states.

"Through this division," it continued, "the OPM will be enabled more effectively to adjust the dislocations and alleviate unemployment resulting from priorities and material shortages, and bring about maximum use of the nation's factories and industrial plants, especially the smaller ones throughout the nation. This will be done in four major steps:

"(1) The breaking down of large orders of supplies into smaller units, and spreading the purchases among more firms and in all localities possible.

"(2) Providing assistance through the labor division of OPM in retraining and obtaining re-employment for workers who are unemployed as a result of shutting down of some plants or reduction of their output.

"(3) The effective distribution of defense contracts to the smaller business enterprises, as yet largely unused, through an expanded use of subcontracting, tract distribution, and the pooling of plant facilities.

"(4) By providing a staff of industrial and production engineers to formulate and execute specific plans for the conversion of nondefense industries and plants to defense production."

Visitor Lauds Atlanta's Traffic Improvements

Atlanta traffic congestion has been improved more in the past six months than in the previous 10 years, Walter A. Spratt, of Brooklyn, N. Y., traffic engineer, en route to a traffic school in South Carolina, told Mayor LeCraw yesterday.

Spratt said he had been visiting Atlanta periodically since 1929 and that "improvement of traffic is so obvious that even a novice would be impressed." He said trouble spots are being eliminated and the improvement is general.

Nazi Sergeant Shot in Paris; Reprisals Seen

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A German army sergeant was shot last night in Paris, it was disclosed today, adding one more incident to the growing list of hostile acts against German authority in the occupied zone and bringing to a head the German military administration's warning that arrested French hostages would pay for such assaults.

Official circles believed tonight that reprisals would be forthcoming, particularly since the Germans had given public warning of their intention.

The German was said to have been not seriously wounded, but German officials immediately took the case out of the hands of the French police and began a manhunt for the assailant.

The sergeant received one bullet under the left shoulder. He was shot in the street as he was nearing his hotel residence in the Rue de Strasbourg, accompanied by his fiancée. He was rushed to La Riboisiere hospital.

The sergeant was the second victim of unidentified assailants. The first incident occurred August 21, when a German colonel was fatally stabbed in a Paris subway.

Two days later, the commanding general of German forces in France threatened to shoot French hostages in reprisal, the number depending on the seriousness of the offense against the Germans.

Later the Vichy ambassador to Paris, Fernand de Brinon, said that the reprisals threat had had a bad popular reaction and that the Germans had backed down to allow the French themselves to deal with such acts as those of Communists.

U. S. Tanker Arrives Safely At Vladivostok

Washington Pushes Plans To Send More Aid By Same Route.

By The Associated Press

The diplomatic struggle in the Far East between Japan on the one hand and Britain and the United States on the other was highlighted yesterday by official announcement of the arrival in Vladivostok of an American tanker carrying fuel for Soviet Russia.

Tokyo had unofficially complained long and strongly against this traffic in such supplies—the sort which are limited to Japan—and has under consideration a plan to stop it by declaring a "safety zone" about Japan which might isolate Vladivostok from Pacific shipments.

In a semi-official publication, the Japanese people were given a complete set of air raid rules although they were assured that so long as the Japanese navy and army functioned there was no need to fear air raids on Tokyo like those delivered against Chungking, China, and London.

Dispatches from the Dutch East Indies, which the Japanese have pictured as co-operating with Britain, the United States and China, said shipments of war materials and other products from the United States to those islands had increased fivefold during the last six months.

Plans were pushed in Washington to expedite other shipments of materials needed by the embattled Soviet army.

Secretary of State Hull declined any comment on the fact that the American vessel—carrying 95,000 barrels of gasoline—had reached Vladivostok without incident despite Japanese displeasure over dispatch of war supplies to the Soviet Pacific port.

In fact, the only official recognition of completion of the vessel's trip was an informal announcement that she made port at Vladivostok Wednesday.

Informal quarters indicated, however, that further supplies would be rushed by the same route.

Tennessean Asks Aid of Aldredge

There's at least one resident of Tennessee who thinks that state should have Georgia's help in controlling bootleggers.

Fulton Sheriff J. C. (Mott) Aldredge got a letter yesterday, addressed to "The High Sheriff of Georgia, Atlanta." It came from Harriman, Tenn., and was written by a woman who signed her name but decided she had better erase it before she mailed the epistle.

"The bootleggers are so bad here, I wonder if you could do something about them," she penciled. "Please let me know if you can."

Aldredge said he had enough trouble with "shiners" in his own county much less all of Georgia and Tennessee, too, and added, "How can I let her know that when she didn't sign her name?"

Tribunal Opens Case Against Movie Firms

Atlanta Hearing Tests Charge Against Clearing System.

The first case to be tried in the Atlanta territory against the present motion picture system of film clearings was opened here yesterday before the Atlanta District Motion Picture Tribunal of the American Arbitration Association.

Aaron H. Courshom, operator of the Parkway theater at Miami, Fla., filed suit last May against Paramount Film Corporation, Vi-agraph Corporation, Loew's, Incorporated, and Paramount Enterprises, charging "that as an operator he is not permitted to show pictures until 120 or 150 days after downtown theaters have shown the same pictures."

Courshom demanded in his petition "that maximum clearance fixed not to exceed 21 days after the downtown first run be obtained for his theater."

The tribunal, presided over by Harold T. Patterson, Atlanta attorney, will continue the hearing through today, S. S. Perry, of New York, assistant executive director of the American Arbitration Association, is also attending the hearing.

Bradshaw's Jitterbug Band Will Play Here

Coming to Atlanta Monday night, "Tiny" Bradshaw, self-styled "King of the Jitterbugs," and Lil (Romance in the Dark) Green will appear for a dance engagement at City Auditorium.

Bradshaw, ruler of "rug-cutters" and king of rhythmmania, is well known to Atlanta, having driven 200 miles last year from an out-of-the-way spot to play a Red Cross benefit engagement at the Fox theater. Local jitterbugs always give him a larger following upon each return engagement.

A special section will be reserved for white patrons.

Full U. S. War Aid Urged by Churchill, King

Support 'In Every Field' Called Alternative to World Chaos.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—United States support of Great Britain against Germany in every field was urged pointedly by Prime Ministers Churchill, of Britain, and Mackenzie King, of Canada, today in companion speeches picturing world chaos as the alternative.

"Britain without aid far greater than any yet in sight cannot win the war for freedom the world over," declared King in calling for a United States pledge of support against Germany similar to that which Churchill has made to the United States regarding Japan.

This, he said, would carry still further the declarations begun by President Roosevelt's pledge to oppose any threat by another empire to dominate Canada.

Churchill, following King as speaker at a lord mayor's luncheon in the visiting Canadian's honor, called King's plea "a memorable and momentous declaration" and thanked him for putting it in terms stronger than Churchill himself, as a British prime minister, might have chosen.

"Full Co-operation Needed." "He has spoken of the immense burden we have to bear," said Churchill, "of our unflinching resolve to persevere, to carry forward our standard in common, and he also has struck a note, never absent from our minds, that no lasting or perfect solution of the difficulties with which we are now confronted—with which the whole world is confronted—no diversion of that sad fate by which the whole world is menaced, can be achieved without full co-operation in every field of all nations which as yet lie outside the range of the conqueror's power."

Following quickly on these linked assertions, Minister of Information Brendan Bracken, who until recently was Churchill's secretary, invited members of the United States congress to come to England to investigate operation of the American lease-lend program of aid to Britain.

In thus taking up a suggestion made yesterday by Federal Appeals Judge William Clark, of Philadelphia, who is visiting here, Bracken said, "We are anxious to find independent witnesses and critics, but not peace mongers." (The invitation was received with little enthusiasm by senate members in Washington.)

said, "I find further encouragement in the word of President Roosevelt last Monday when he said, 'I know I speak for the conscience and determination of the American people when I say we shall do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces.'"

"We in Canada were greatly heartened when, three years ago, the President, after referring to the Dominion of Canada as part of the sisterhood of the British Empire, declared the people of the United States would not stand idly by if the domination of Canadian soil were threatened by any other empire."

"Wider Arrangements" Seen. "In the name of our government, I reciprocated at once by recognizing Canada's responsibilities to do what lay within her power to prevent attacks through her territory upon the United States."

"These declarations were the starting point of our agreement for joint defense. "Today, fortunately, we are witnessing the birth of still wider arrangements for joint defense between the British Empire and the United States."

"Your declaration, Mr. Prime Minister, that in the Far East Britain would stand at the side of the United States is a sure sign of the deepening interdependence of the free world."

(Describing Japanese military factions as seeking to emulate the Hitler method, and menacing Singapore and the Philippines, Churchill on August 24 said the United States was laboring patiently to secure a fair and amicable settlement, "but if these hopes should fail, we shall, of course, range ourselves unhesitatingly at the side of the United States.")

"A similar declaration on the part of the United States as respects Nazi Germany would, I believe, serve to shorten this perilous conflict," said King.

"A declaration would be full of meaning for the German people. At the same time it would constitute a realistic recognition that Britain is the one obstacle in the way of Nazi attack upon the New World."

King told the glittering assemblage that "it daily becomes clearer that resistance alone will not bring victory. Unless the whole resources, the total energy of the free world, are thrown into the struggle, the war may drag on for years, carrying in its train famine, pestilence and horrors still undreamed of."

He warned that "Hitlerism has found its most useful allies among those who believed they could save themselves by isolation and neutrality while others fought the battles of freedom."

MOULTREE, Ga., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Georgia "must have a joint agricultural and industrial program," Governor Talmadge declared at Moultrie's annual rodeo last night. The state needs "not only packing plants and textile mills, but many other plants to manufacture our raw products," he said.

St. Louis Bows Twice To Give Dodgers Lead

Passeau Blanks Ex-Leaders, 3-0; Brooklyn Rained Out.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The pennant-pursuing St. Louis Cardinals were knocked out of the National League leadership today by dropping a pair of heart-breaking games to the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 0 and 4 to 3. The last game went 11 innings.

The double defeat dropped the Cardinals to a full game behind the rained-out Brooklyn Dodgers. The dramatic second game was broken up as shadows were beginning to engulf Wrigley field and the umpires were considering calling the game because of darkness.

With the score tied at 3 to 3 and one out, Barney Olsen, a rookie Cub outfielder, lifted a high fly ball to left field which Don Padgett attempted to grab but dropped. Stanley Hack, who had walked and reached third on Lou Stringer's single, raced home with the winning run to the cheers of 19,303 spectators.

The double defeat saw the collapse of two of the Cardinals' ace starting pitchers. Lon Warneke and Morton Cooper, Warneke making his first start after pitching a no-hit game against Cincinnati, failed to survive four innings in the first game, after allowing the Cubs their three runs. He was touched for six hits and gave five bases on balls.

Cooper was relieved in the fourth inning by that promising young 20-year-old rookie left-hander, Howard Pollet, recently obtained from Houston, Texas.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, aided by rain, beat the Cincinnati Reds and their ace pitcher, Bucky Walters, today 4 to 0 in a game which was half game of third place now occupied by their opponents.

A sudden downpour of rain in the Pirates' half of the fifth inning with one man out caused the game to be called.

Shortstop Arky Vaughan, still subject to dizzy spells since he was beamed in an exhibition game last week in London, Ont., was not in uniform. The club physician ordered him to take off a few days and rest.

Victory Brings Fifth Pennant In Six Years

Tribe Tallies 3 in 10th To Give Bob Feller 22d Victory.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The steamroller New York Yankees smashed through the Boston Red Sox 6 to 3 today to clinch their fifth American League pennant in six years.

Out of the king row for only one season while the rest of the league tried to "break up the Yankees" by legislation, New York recaptured the championship with the biggest margin and at the earliest date in the history of the league.

Their sweep of the two-game series with the Red Sox, who were in second place till the Yankees came to town, gave New York a record of 91 victories and 45 defeats for a percentage of .669 and a lead of 20 games over the Chicago White Sox, who moved into second place even though idle.

It was a great triumph for Manager Joe McCarthy, though the chunky strategist was not present for the clincher. He started the season with material that, in the opinion of most observers, was no better than the talent of some of his rivals.

Mary Ellen Orme Will Bow At Home on November 14

By SALLY FORTH.

LOVELY MARY ELLEN ORME has chosen November 14 as the auspicious date upon which she will be presented to society. The all-important social event will take the form of a tea given at the Peachtree road residence of her mother, Mrs. Jean Bienville. There is particular sentiment attached to the home wherein Mary Ellen will make her November bow to society, because several generations of her maternal side of the family have resided there.

Mary Ellen is the namesake of her great-grandmothers, the late Mrs. Robert Clarke, who was the former Miss Mary Lowry, an Atlanta beauty, and of Mrs. Philip Cohen, who before her marriage was Miss Ellen Wright, an Augusta belle.

As you know, Mary Ellen is the granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph Orme, and the late Major and Mrs. John S. Cohen, and her families on both sides always have been influential and prominent.

Brunet and personable Mary Ellen is just as pretty and charming as can be and enjoyed the cultural advantage of traveling in the United States and Europe. She attended school in Lisbon, Portugal; at Ashley Hall in Charleston, S. C., and graduated from Washington Seminary.

The back cover carries the following notice: "While our plant and all production facilities are in excellent condition, the present unsettled condition of world affairs and the unpredictable requirements of national defense make it impossible to guarantee the date of future deliveries."

Mrs. Willis, you know, is the former Emily Habersham Magid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Magid Sr., of Tallulah, Atlanta and Miami, and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Caldwell, the former Righton Habersham Magid, of Memphis, Tenn., and Louis B. Magid Jr., of Miami. MISS PEGGY DUTTON.

Miss Dutton Elected Head Of Girls' Tallulah Circle

Miss Peggy Dutton was elected president of the Girls' Circle for the Tallulah Falls School at the first meeting of the year held yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club and a total of $752.50 was announced as the sum raised by the circle during the past year.

Presided over by the retiring president, Miss Ethel Erwin, the meeting was attended by 150 members of the young unmarried set who compose membership in the circle, which is the largest of the unmarried groups in the state working for the benefit of the "Light in the Mountains."

Miss Yolande Gwin, honorary life president of the circle, who was named chairman of the nominating committee, announced the following slate of officers in addition to Miss Dutton: Misses Nancy Keeler, Dorothy Giddings, and Margaret Winship, vice presidents; Mary Virginia McConnell, corresponding secretary; Isabel Vretnan, recording secretary, and Ann Pappenheimer, re-elected treasurer.

Miss Erwin, the retiring president, has served for the past two years and has accomplished outstanding work resulting in a large financial sum being given to Tallulah Falls school, as the circles' contribution for the work for the mountain children. In addition to Miss Erwin, the past year's officers are Misses Nancy Keeler, Peggy Dutton and Bolling Spalding, vice presidents; Mrs. Ward Wight Jr., the former Miss Sarah

Lewis, secretary, and Miss Ann Pappenheimer, treasurer.

Miss Dutton, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Dutton, came to Atlanta to reside several years ago from Cincinnati, Ohio, and became a member of the circle three years ago. In addition to serving as vice president last year, she was the capable chairman for the Dartmouth College Glee Club performance here last spring staged under the auspices of the Girls' Circle. Proceeds from the affair netted the circle $434.50. Upon assuming leadership of the group Miss Dutton pledged unfailing co-operation with all members for any undertaking chosen by the circle, and announced that a number of plans were under way, the details to be announced later.

Miss Pappenheimer, who was re-elected treasurer, announced in addition to the glee club proceeds, the circle had $90 as a result of the dance recital staged last spring by Miss Nancy Keeler for the benefit of the circle. Miss Keeler, who was re-elected a vice president, each year presents her dancing pupils in an elaborate recital, the proceeds received by a silver offering, being donated to the work of the circle. In appreciation of this service, Miss Keeler was presented a knitting bag made at the mountain school. The treasurer also announced a check for $150 as a result of the circle's sponsorship of an edition of The Constitution rotogravure section last fall.

Miss Gwin presented the circle a check for $100 from Butler's, Inc., as commission for a series of ads run in The Atlanta Constitution and featuring the circle. Miss Gwin also announced that arrangements had been made for the circle to again sponsor the radio section in The Constitution in the fall, further details to be announced later.

Special guests at the meeting who made talks were Mrs. Albert Hill, president of the board of trustees of the Tallulah Falls school, and Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger, chairman of the advisory committee appointed by the board to work with the circle. Other members of the board who are Mesdames H. W. Beers, Eugene Harrington, Clarence Haverly, William Akers, Lawrence Willet, were also present.

Members of the Washington Seminary and North Fulton circles from last year's graduating classes at the school were welcomed as new members and were honored at tea after the meeting. Tea was served on the terrace with new officers acting as hostesses with the retiring leaders.

Fortson-Freeman Nuptials Held in Jacksonville, Fla.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 4. Wearing an heirloom veil of tulle and duchess lace caught to a lace coronet with clusters of fresh orange blossoms, Miss Anne Wright Fortson became the bride of Judson Freeman at a brilliant ceremony this evening at St. John Episcopal church. Rev. Middleton, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Frank A. Jahan, bishop of the diocese of Florida, officiated. Mrs. Robert L. Hutchinson presented the music.

The altar was banked with stately palms, forming the background for large baskets of white gladioli. Hundreds of gleaming candles furnished the only light in the church.

Elliott Butts served as best man for his nephew, and the groomsmen included Ray Richardson Jr., Edwin Gay, both of Jacksonville; J. Wiley Pope III, of Miami, and Lieutenant Wilson Freeman, brother of the groom, of Fort Bragg, N. C.

Miss Nellie Phinizy Fortson was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. John A. Gilland, Miss Katherine Knight, both of Jacksonville; Mrs. Gordon Jones, of Atlanta, and Miss Nell Bolling Johnson, cousin of the bride, of Athens.

The attendants were gowned alike in "Lilac Time" marquisette over taffeta. The fitted bodices were edged with wide ruffles of Chantilly lace, matching lace forming deep berths. The long bishop sleeves were caught at the wrists with lace cuffs, and lace also trimmed the waltz-wide skirts. They carried butterfly bouquets of yellow maline centered with aurum lilies.

The beautiful young bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Commander R. M. Fortson, was exquisitely gowned in white net over taffeta, the bodice and fitted sleeves being shirred in an all-over design. Misty waves of net surged from the long torso to form a graceful, sweeping train. Her veil was fan-shaped, and her only ornament was a diamond star belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Billups Phinizy, of Athens. She carried a butterfly bouquet of white orchids and tuberoses tied with white maline and satin bows.

An elaborate reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Artega boulevard, the receiving line being comprised of the bridal couple, the hosts and Mrs. James V. Freeman, mother of the groom. Mrs. Fortson was attired in dusty rose marquisette featuring a flower design. Her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Freeman wore a gown of duobonnet lace, and her flowers were tallisman roses.

The reception rooms were lighted throughout with hundreds of gleaming tapers. The bride's table was centered with an antique silver epergne holding clusters of tuberoses, similar flowers encircling the tiered wedding cake, which was frosted in pale green.

Later in the evening the bridal couple left for their wedding trip to the Pocomo mountains and other points of interest in the east. The bride traveled in a three-piece suit of robin's egg blue and brown plaid wool, her hat being fashioned of the same material. After October 1, they will reside at 2978 Riverside avenue in Jacksonville.

Among the Atlantans attending the nuptials were Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding, uncle and aunt Miss Pearsall Becomes Bride Of Major C. K. Gailey Jr.

CONYERS, Ga., Sept. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. John Darlin Pearsall, of Bay City, Mich., and Clearwater Beach, Fla., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Alice Pearsall, to Major Charles Kenon Gailey Jr., United States Army, of Washington, D. C., and Conyers, which was solemnized here at 10 o'clock in the morning on August 30 in the drawing room at Morrison Farms, the country estate of the bride's sister, Mrs. Cleve Moore Morrison.

Right Rev. William J. Lanoragan, of the Sacred Heart church in Atlanta, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. Woodwardia ferns, silver candelabra holding lighted white tapers, and vases filled with white roses, lilies and tuberoses beautified the improvised altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, with whom she descended the stairs, and Major Gene L. Harrison, U. S. A., of Washington, D. C., was best man. The groom and his best man wore their white army uniforms ornamented with gold insignia.

The bride, a lovely blonde, was gowned in ivory silk marquisette applied in ivory tulle and her veil was made of ivory-tinted tulle and her becoming costume was offset with orchids and valley lilies.

Miss Nona Pearsall, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore powder blue crepe and a lei of white gardenias.

Mrs. Pearsall, the bride's mother, wore a brown crepe model sequin trimmed and her flowers were orchids. Mrs. Morrison was gowned in turquoise crepe and her flowers were rubrum lilies.

A breakfast was served after the ceremony, the table being centered with white roses, lilies and tuberoses, and silver candelabra held white tapers. The bride and groom were central figures at the afternoon reception given by Charles Kenon Gailey and War Hardwick Gailey, father and brother of the groom, at their home in Conyers.

White flowers, favorites of the bride, decorated the Gailey home. A three-tiered and exquisitely embossed wedding cake graced the center of the lace-covered table in the dining room. Candle light provided the glow in the room, the cake was encircled with smilax and was cut by the bridal couple with the groom's sabre.

Major Gailey and his bride will reside at the Kennedy-Warren in Washington, D. C., at the conclusion of their wedding trip. Mrs. Gailey received her education at Holy Rosary Academy, Central High school in Bay City and graduated from Pratt Institute in New York, where she belonged to Tau Phi sorority.

Major Gailey attended school in Conyers, was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point and is on duty in the War Department in the national capital.

Louella Lauds A. J. Cronin's Novel

By Louella O. Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4.—(INS)—I wondered how long it would be before some producer stepped out and bought A. J. Cronin's "The Keys of the Kingdom." For not only is it at the top of the fiction best sellers—but it is one of the most inspiring stories ever written. Probably as you are reading this column, David Selznick is writing out a check for the book—and I am told the price is $100,000. Many times in the past I have felt that the movies have paid too much money for novels and stage plays—but "The Keys of the Kingdom" is not one of them. This story of the life and heartaches, disillusionments and spiritual triumphs of a young Catholic priest is inspiring beyond bounds of any creed. It is a story uplifting to everyone who believes that spiritual values still matter in this materialistic world. If you ask me, David, who produces his pictures in such excellent taste, is the ideal producer to bring the Cronin novel to the screen. He is so enthused about it that already the search is on for the actor to play the priest and the young boy who is left in his care.

Jock Whitney, young millionaire who has given so freely of his time and his money to promote good feeling in South America, is in Rio de Janeiro and has been there for two weeks. With him is Walt Disney whose "Fantasia" had a big charity premiere a few nights ago with Mrs. Vargas, wife of the President of Brazil, as the sponsor. Buenos Aires will have the same type of first night for the Disney picture and from there both Disney and Whitney will go to Santiago, Chile. In South America young Mr. Whitney will confer with the ministers of information and other heads of the government about what South America wants in the way of motion picture entertainment. He will also plan with Brazil to have an epic picture made in Hollywood dealing with some Brazilian hero or some period in history that is of special significance and interest to Brazil.

"The Constant Nymph" has been up for discussion again and again. Margaret Kennedy's widely read book, as you know, was made once in England with Brian Aherne in the lead. It was also put on the stage, but for some reason Warners, who own the rights, have delayed producing it, probably because they seem to have the proper person for the heroine. Now with Joan Leslie proving she can act in "Sergeant York," you'll see her in "The Constant Nymph," with Henry Fonda in one of the most important roles. We look to see this picture put on the screen before the end of 1941.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Susan Hayward, who went to the hospital to get rid of a bad cold, is now well again and the pneumonia scare in the past; the Clayde Binyons welcomed their second child—an eight-pound girl—over the weekend; Pat Morrison, the latest to cut her hair short and it's very becoming. She was at the Scheerazade with Wynn Rocomoro; George Montgomery is back from Ginger Rogers' ranch where he spent Labor Day. And it was interesting to hear all the belated excitement over the Rogers-Montgomery romance. We printed it two weeks ago; Mildred Zukor Lowe is in town visiting friends. Adolph's brilliant daughter owns a theater in Tucson; Joan Blondell's birthday gift from Dick was a topaz clip; Sheila Ryan is now concentrating on Henry Willson, the agent; Henry Fonda and Jimmie Stewart all by their lonesome at the Palladium listening to Woody Herman's band; Errol Flynn has bought an annuity for his housekeeper; Clara Bow and Rex Bell, who have been living quietly in Hollywood for six weeks while Clara had some dental work done, have gone back to their Nevada ranch; Marlene Dietrich checked out of the hospital and is at home now; the Willie Wyllers back from Tahoe, are leaving immediately for New York to complete their holiday; Inez Cooper is shopping for a house in the valley; Massini fainted dead away on the Warner set after the longest take ever made at that studio. Funny thing the way all the stars flock to see the scenes being shot for the Monte Carlo ballet short. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

A little schoolgirl will be encouraged to get undressed and ready for bed if she has a quilted cotton housecoat such as that of the happy miss above. It zips down the front, is printed with bright red apples, and has a bright red lining. Pretty as can be and cozy warm. Little sister's is $2.98 and big sister can have one just like it for $3.98. Call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565 to find where they can be bought.

A Beauty Tip for Your Teeth

Here's a tip worthy of note! You know how important gleaming teeth and pleasant breath are to feminine appeal. Realizing this, a famous cosmetician has put out a tooth paste which is a beauty treatment for your mouth. It's a luscious raspberry red which looks good enough to eat and has a most delightful taste. The paste leaves your teeth sleek and shining. More than that, though, it actually removes stale tobacco or other unpleasant tastes and odors. It leaves your mouth with a cool, refreshing feeling, giving your whole self a lift. You don't have to spend a cent to try this paste. Call Winifred Ware at Walnut 6565 and I'll tell you where you can get a sample tube just for the asking.

Good Letters Discuss "You," Not "I"

Dear Dixie:

In about two weeks I will go to college as a freshman. The college is about 75 miles from my home. This is my problem: How can I keep my boy friend? I will not get home often, and he will not be able to come to see me very often. I am almost sure he will have other dates, and I do not blame him. The trouble is that I am afraid I will lose his love. How can I keep his love, and will it be all right for me to ask him to write and come to see me? Should I write him first?

COLLEGE FRESHMAN.

The only way you can keep your friend interested with a 75-mile separation is to keep him conscious of you. That can only be accomplished by writing to him and letting him know that you think of him. Don't overdo the letter writing, and do not be too gushing in your affections for him. A good thing to remember when you write a letter, is to think how the information would look if spread across the front page of a newspaper. In other words, do not make the letters too intimate. Make them friendly and interesting, but also make them a bit personal for him.

Of course write to him first. Tell him about the school, but do not fill the letter with every detail, and do not make it too long. Brief and breezy should be the tone of the first letter you write him. Ask him to write you and keep you posted about everybody and everything, but especially about himself. Play up your interest in his welfare and let him know you are really more concerned about him than anyone else. If your class plans a party or a dance and members are allowed to invite out-of-town friends, write and invite him. If he likes you well enough, he will be having dates with the other girls just to pass the time away while you are gone.

SACRIFICE SURPRISE TO PREVENT SUSPICION
Dear Dixie:

I am on the spot. I planned to give my wife a very nice present for her birthday, and, of course, being a man, I did not know just what would appeal to her. Well, I called a woman I know and asked her to go with me to help me

By DIXIE GEORGE.

select something. As fate would have it, we saw nearly everybody we knew on that little shopping tour. As we live in a small town, the news went like wildfire, and it was all over town before I even got home. Not that I minded so much, but the woman I asked to go with me is one whom I used to go with before I married. She is not married but is still a good friend of mine and of my wife. Of course, my wife was ready when I got home. She raised Cain the whole evening telling me how much I had humiliated her before the whole town by going shopping with the other woman and by buying her clothes in the leading store in town. She is making up her mind, she says, whether to go away and leave me until I get over my affair or whether to divorce me. What can I do? There was nothing to the trip except I thought it might be a good idea to buy something she would really like rather than something she would have to return.

WORRIED HUSBAND.

If you can just keep her at home until after her birthday, I think it will be all right, then you will have positive proof that your shopping expedition was in her behalf. I think she is acting rather foolishly, but after all, you certainly gave her something to think about, however, harmless were your intentions. It seems to me your woman friend who went shopping with you, would come to your rescue and help you again.

If your wife is determined to leave you, whether it be permanent or temporary, the thing you had better do is to give her the birthday present right away and let your woman friend be "in on it" and back you up. Your wife should understand, and should at least give you the benefit of the doubt, before she makes such a scene. Next time you had better take your wife and let her select her own gift.

MY DAY: Documentary Film Shows Mexican Life

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—Last night we saw a very beautiful movie, a documentary film, "The Forgotten Village," written by John Steinbeck, with music by Hans Elster. It is the story of a boy in a small village in Mexico and shows the life of the village, the superstitions which still exist, and the bad sanitation. It portrays the gathering of the family round the fire in the evening, the birth of a new baby, the selling of the corn which is the basis of life, a festival, and a death in the family.

Finally, the young Mexican leaves his village, because the local schoolmaster has brought knowledge and inspiration to such of the youth of the community who are open to new ideas. The boy will return trained to lead his people to a better life.

I was tremendously interested in the medical trucks which go over almost impassable roads to serve the people in these remote villages. That rural medical service seems to me of great importance. Mexico is doing something which we could well study, for we need to improve our own services in many ways.

Some of the young people of the International Students' Service, who were with us in Campobello last summer, were here last night. Since two of them came from Seattle, Wash., they brought another Seattle friend, so I am beginning to gather up quite a number of young acquaintances whom I shall want to see when I visit my daughter this month.

Some of these young people are starting out to hitchhike back to college and look upon it as a real adventure. They have, of course, definite destinations, but hitchhiking gives them a chance to see unexpected places and make new acquaintances. Instead of being merely a journey, it is an exciting and unpredictable experience.

This morning I had a press conference and several appointments before a group of young friends came to meet my daughters-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, at lunch.

Dean William Fletcher Russell, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, is holding a meeting here in the White House this afternoon to discuss a program of education for the great group of aliens who are to become citizens of our country during the next few years. It is an important undertaking and will mean a great deal in improving the quality of citizenship they are able to bring to their new home.

I hope a great many women throughout the country will be celebrating Jane Addams' birthday on September 6. Miss Addams served humanity so well she should never be forgotten. Anyone who knew her will remember the inspiration of her presence, but her spirit went far beyond the individuals who knew her. It affected the thinking and living of people all over the world.

Diet of the Average Person Has a Deficiency in Calcium

By Ida Jean Kain.

The other day a Republican friend of mine bowed me over with the perfectly matter-of-fact statement that "all this nutrition business is just a fancy that will pass out with the administration."

"Well, brother, you're wrong," I told him, "for nutrition is here to stay. We will never go back to our refined ways of eating. Anyone who persists in following his old bill of fare is just cutting off his longevity."

In the first place, the wealth of scientific information about right eating wasn't thought up by the New Dealers. It all started with the discovery of vitamins 30 years ago but it took a national emergency to make us realize that the protective foods are not something we can take or leave. They are essential if we are to get the most out of living.

One of the leading scientists who makes this astounding prophecy is Dr. Henry C. Sherman, research professor of Columbia University. It is his belief that by applying this newer knowledge of nutrition to our three meals a day one-third of our people can be freed from ills resulting either directly or indirectly from wrong eating, and that it can build a higher level of health and efficiency among the people who are well.

There should be no doubt in your mind that right food habits tend to give you a longer lease on a more useful life. Even though it meant a complete revision of our way of eating, such a change would be justified. But no drastic change is needed. The average American follows a fairly good diet and by making minor revisions it can be a perfect one.

Check over the protective food list and make sure that somewhere or other the day's menus supply: one pint of milk, or one glass and a serving of cheese; two vegetables, one a green leafy or a yellow vegetable, a green salad; two fresh fruits, one a citrus; an egg daily, or at least four times a week; at least two servings of whole grain products, or enriched bread; some butter; one or more servings of lean meat, poultry or fish. Occasionally the menus should include liver, kidney, and such salt water fish as salmon, herring and mackerel. Since the average diet is deficient in calcium and vitamins A, B and C, you should make a point of getting enough milk, green vegetables, 100 per cent whole grains, and citrus fruits.

Your Dietitian,
IDA JEAN KAIN.

Miss Emily Jones and Lieut. Barnett To Wed in Griffin

GRiffin, Ga., Sept. 4.—Sincere interest of friends throughout the state is manifest today in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Milton Jones of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Emily Haynes Jones to Lieutenant Tom Walker Barnett, of Magee, Miss., and Camp Davis, N. C. The marriage will be a quiet event of the early fall in Griffin.

Miss Jones is one of Griffin's most popular young women. She is a descendant of prominent families of North Carolina, Ohio and Georgia. Her maternal forbears were members of the Cleveland, Monroe, Napier, Ellis and Sims families. Her great-grandfather, Nathan Campbell Monroe, was the first president of the Central of Georgia railroad. The bride-elect's mother, prior to her marriage, was Miss Cynthia Ellis of Griffin. On her paternal side Miss Jones is a descendant of the Haynes, Jones and May families of Ohio.

Rural Housing Unit Allocated $950,000 Fund

17 Central Georgia Counties To Build Farm Homes.

Recent federal allocation of $950,000 for rural housing in 17 central Georgia counties will increase to about 1,600 the number of new farm homes built under this program in the state.

Georgia pioneered in the development of this work and the first project in the nation was completed in Thomas county in the late spring of 1940. Since then Rural Housing Authorities embracing counties in southwest, southeast and central Georgia have been established.

The Central Georgia Association, composed of Barrow, Walton, Oconee, Greene, Morgan, Jasper, Rockdale, Newton, Putnam, Jones, Monroe, Upson, Butts, Spalding, Henry, Clayton and Fayette counties, is the latest to be set up.

The United States Housing Authority announced a little more than a week ago the allocation of $950,000 to this group. When a loan contract and new technical details have been worked out, this sum will provide for the construction of about 400 homes.

In the Southwest Georgia Association the counties are Crisp, Worth, Colquitt, Lowndes, Brooks, Thomas, Grady, Mitchell, Decatur, Baker and Calhoun. The first to be established, this group is the largest in the state, with 105 houses completed. Its allocation of $1,293,000 provides for the construction of some 600 houses.

An almost equal number of houses is planned by the Southwestern Georgia Association, which includes the counties of Appling, Ben Hill, Dodge, Jefferson, Jenkins, Johnson, Laurens, Montgomery, Tait, Talbot, Toombs, Treutlen and Wheeler. Jones and Greene counties were originally in this group, which has an allocation of $1,200,000, but they transferred to the Central Association upon its formation.

The counties organized into associations to reduce overhead. Each group has a central office and the number of employees is less than if each county had its own organization.

The program provides that for each new house built a substantial dwelling must be destroyed or converted to other use than human habitation. In this way, said State Treasurer George B. Hamilton, old and unsightly shacks are eliminated. Hamilton was chairman of the State Housing Authority until the legislature reorganized it this year.

Long-Range Effect.

He said the program was not yet far enough advanced to determine its long-range effects. He added, however, that he believed it would help to make farm living more attractive as well as raise living standards. Each contract, he pointed out, provides that a vegetable garden shall be cultivated on the one-acre tract in which each house is built. Also, chickens must be raised and fruit trees planted.

Any farmer is eligible to apply for one of the houses but his income must not be greater than five times the gross rent. Hamilton said this meant that families with an income of not more than $400 or $500 annually will be the ones to benefit.

No standard design is prescribed for the houses but their overall cost is limited to about $2,000. They are built on one acre of land which, together with the house, is deeded to the local housing authority until the cost has been amortized.

ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 4.—(AP)—Great Britain will receive large lend-lease shipments of pecans if a recommendation of the Pecan Distributors Association is accepted.

President Thad Hucklebee said today he had appointed a general committee to study a proposal that 10,000,000 pounds of pecan nuts in the shell be removed from the market to stabilize prices.

Instead of being returned to domestic markets, the nuts probably would be exported under lend-lease arrangements, Hucklebee said. An effort also is being made to place pecans on the United States Army and Navy approved list.

The association met here yesterday and discussed plans to stabilize the pecan market.

15,000 Acres Southern Pine Being Added Ceiling Price To Ft. Benning Given Raise

Ante-Bellum Homestead Among Farms To Be Evacuated Soon.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 4.—(P)—An ante-bellum family homestead will be abandoned for the first time on October 1 so that the Fort Benning reservation can continue its expansion program which already has absorbed 15,000 privately owned acres.

The owner, 86-year-old Mrs. Martha C. Jones, was among a dozen landowners to sell property today to the land acquisition division of the national defense program. For her 57 acres of land she received $1,800.

The acquisition division has appraised and purchased 15,000 acres since the Army reservation began its expansion little more than a year ago. The Farm Security Administration assists in finding new homesteads for evacuated residents.

Other checks paid today to landowners were $200 for 4.45 acres owned by V. M. Aldridge, a Columbus builder; $875 for 12.24 acres owned by Annie Hutto, and $320 for 5.75 acres owned by W. D. Willis.

Residents will be evacuated October 1. Immediately thereafter government contracts will be let to transfer the farm land into suitable training grounds for the second armored and fourth motorized divisions.

Two Georgians Urged To Enter Picking Contest

Wilcox County Cotton Pickers Invited to National Event.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. BY THE WILCOX, Ark., Sept. 4. Upon reading an account of the feats of two Wilcox county farmers, R. V. Gibbs and Ernie Gibbs, brothers living near Rochelle, Ga., who recently made headlines throughout the south by picking 5,705 pounds of cotton in 29 days and a half days for a daily average of 518 pounds apiece, citizens of this community have extended them an invitation to enter the national cotton picking contest to be held here September 28-30.

The national contest officially crowns the world's champion cotton picker. In addition, it offers a total of $2,000 in prizes to the 24 best pickers, with $1,000 in cash going to the winner.

Whether or not the Gibbs brothers will decide to accept the invitation extended them and put their skill at pulling cotton against the expected field of 200 entrants is not yet known.

Last year's winner and present world's champion is 16-year-old Harold Mason, Senatobia, Mo., schoolboy, who picked 129 pounds of cotton in two hours' time to win over a field of 136 entrants. Young Mason has announced his intention of bettering his last year's performance.

Farmers Urged To Plow Under Cotton Stalks

Move Would Halt Boll Weevils, Athens Editor Says.

Plagued by the worst boll weevil situation in years, Georgia farmers were advised yesterday to take a stitch in time against future ravages by plowing under cotton stalks after this season's harvest.

The advice came from Lloyd Burrell, assistant editor of the Agricultural Extension Service at Athens. He suggested the plow-under campaign as one of many important winter jobs awaiting the farmer when he completes harvest.

Approach of winter is the signal for preparing for cover crops such as Austrian peas, vetches, crimson clover and other legumes which enrich the soil for the spring planting.

Seed saving is another winter chore that pays dividends, Burrell said, adding the cost of all seed for the average Georgia farm's annual spring planting totals about $100.

"Then, too, if a farmer has home-grown seed, he doesn't have to worry about a scarcity," the editor said. "Plenty of seed saved this fall will come in handy next year for the home garden."

Other winter jobs listed included cleaning out terraces, repairing pasture fences, cutting and storing winter fuel, and supplementing livestock feed by planting a mixture of small grain and legumes.

Roast Pork

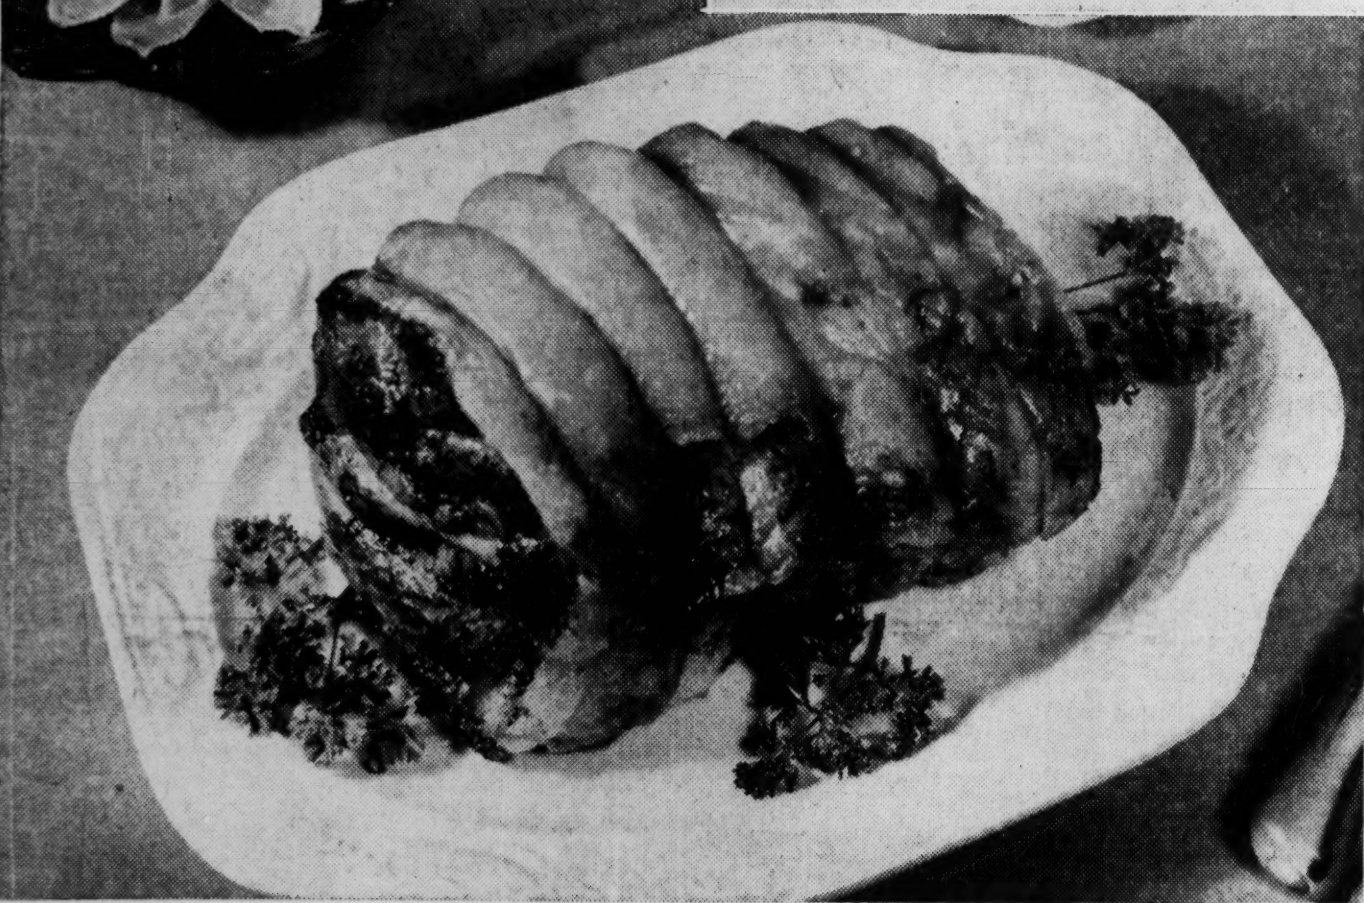

Pork, always a good winter meat, is now an all-year meat. We have an increased appreciation of pork since we've found it to be a good source of the nerve vitamin B1. Shoulder of pork, being cheaper than loin or ham, should often find a place on our menus, and a rolled shoulder is best because the bones are removed, making smooth carving easier.

To cook this rolled pork shoulder, place it in an open roasting pan, do not add any water, set oven control at moderate or 350, and allow 40 to 45 minutes per pound for cooking. This slow, thorough cooking brings out the best flavor of this roast and in fact, of all pork. Here are directions for cooking this roast with a spicy sauce:

Pork Shoulder With Spicy Sauce.

- Roll shoulder
- Salt and pepper
- 2 small onions, minced
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1-2 teaspoon paprika
- 1-2 cup vinegar
- 1-2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons catsup

Have shoulder boned and rolled at the market. Season with salt and pepper, place fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Place in moderate oven, 350 degrees, and roast until well done, allowing 40 to 45 minutes to the pound. Combine other ingredients and cook together for 5 minutes and serve as a sauce with the roasted pork. Left-over pork roast is delicious served in cold slices.

Mrs. James Franklin Ginn cooks for two, and has discovered that it makes for ease and economy to plan her menus at least a week in advance. She keeps house and works, but finds she can do both with the help that advanced planning gives. She makes many small dinner preparations the evening before, eliminating last-minute strain and hurry.

Here's Help With Dinners In Small Household

The ever-increasing crop of brides means that there are lots of young cooks struggling more or less with meals for two. Cooking for two definitely has its problems. Though to buy and cook in small quantity would not be nearly so difficult if there were no need for economy. Steaks and chops can be bought in amounts needed for one meal; but steaks and chops are the most expensive cuts of meat, and most newly-wed budgets cannot bear the strain of steaks and chops daily. Many roasts and other large cheap cuts are out of the question for the family of two unless the cook is experienced in cleverly serving left-overs and even then two are apt to tire of the same roast when it comes up as the main course several days in succession. To the brides, or any housewife who cooks for only two adults, I offer two dinner menus. One is a speedy meal, which will be ready for the table in 30 or 40 minutes from the time it is started; the other is a "company" dinner designed for celebrating a birthday or an anniversary, or just for having a couple of friends in to dine. This dinner, though not expensive, has an elegant air and is well suited to a warm evening. But we'll take the "speedy" dinner first.

Quick Dinner for Two.

Tomato Canape

Deviled Fish Flakes on Toast

Asparagus Salad

Quick Gingerbread with Cream

Coffee

With Egg Dressing

For this dinner you will need 1

large ripe tomato, 1-2 can string beans or 1-2 cup cooked, cold fresh string beans, 1 can asparagus tips, 1 can fish flakes and a package of gingerbread mix, lettuce for the salad and cream for the gingerbread.

First of all see that the lettuce is washed and in the refrigerator to crisp. Then put 1 egg on to hard cook and when it is done, drop it at once into cold water to cool for the salad. Open the asparagus, drain off the juice and put the asparagus in the refrigerator to chill.

Tomato Canape—Cut the tomato into four slices. Cut 1-2 cup cooked or canned string beans in small pieces and mix as much there should really be about one-fourth as much onion as beans. Add 1 tablespoon salad oil, 1 tablespoon vinegar and salt and pepper to season. Spread the tomato slices with prepared horseradish, then heap the bean mixture on each slice and arrange two slices for each serving. Serve cold with crisp bread sticks.

Deviled Fish Flakes on Toast—Open and drain a can of fish flakes and separate into pieces with a fork. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 2 tablespoons flour and when mixed add 1 cup milk, stirring constantly until thickened and boiling. Mix together 2 teaspoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, a dash of cayenne, 1 teaspoon salt and stir into the sauce. Next add the fish flakes and mix carefully and lightly. Let stand over hot water to heat the fish. Make two slices toast and when ready to serve pour the fish mixture over them. Serve with asparagus salad.

Asparagus Salad—Arrange cooked or canned asparagus tips on crisp lettuce. Mix 1 tablespoon prepared mayonnaise or salad dressing with 1 teaspoon lemon juice and pour over the asparagus, then sprinkle with 1 hard-boiled egg rubbed through a strainer. Garnish with bits of pimiento if convenient.

Gingerbread—Use half the package of gingerbread mix, and follow the directions on the package. Bake in muffin pans and serve warm with whipped cream. Half the package will probably make 4 muffin size cakes. Save the extra for lunch next day and serve with fruit.

Order of Work—Wash lettuce and put in icebox. Hard cook egg. Make gingerbread and put in oven to bake.

Make sauce for deviled fish flakes, add fish and put over hot water to heat.

Prepare canape. Prepare salad. Make toast for fish flakes. Make coffee.

Serve dinner.

Company Dinner Serving Four. (By simple subtraction it will serve two.)

Melon balls with pineapple sherbet.

Baked chicken loaf.

Green peas.

Sautéed corn.

Jellied beet salad.

Small hot rolls.

Peach sponge cakes with cream.

Morning Preparations—Make the sponge cakes (or buy individual ones), salad, sherbet (or buy this, too, if you prefer). Prepare the chicken loaf ready for baking. Make the mushroom sauce and leave ready to reheat. Cut the melon balls, put in a covered bowl and store in the refrigerator. If you buy fresh peas, these may be shelled, covered closely and put in refrigerator. Cook corn on the cob and when cold, cut and leave ready to sauté. Frozen cut corn and green peas may, of course, be used and require no previous preparation.

The melon balls, cut from honey dew or pink cantaloupe or both, are served in sherbet glasses with a heaping spoonful of pineapple sherbet on top and the sherbet is sprinkled with fresh, chopped mint—as good to look at as to eat. And could anything be simpler? Orange or raspberry sherbet may be used instead of pineapple if you prefer the flavor.

Use canned boned chicken for the chicken loaf, or the day before steam a small fowl in a little water until tender and let it get thoroughly cold, then cut off the meat and put it through the food chopper, using a coarse knife. For four people you will need an 8-oz. can of boned chicken. The following recipe is for four portions:

Baked Chicken Loaf—Chop the chicken fine and mix with 2 cups soft, fine breadcrumbs, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 pimiento chopped fine, 1-2 teaspoon salt, a little pepper, 1 cup milk and 2 well-beaten eggs. Stir in 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine last. Pour into a greased, oblong baking dish and sprinkle a few buttered bread crumbs over the top. Bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Cut in squares and serve hot with mushroom sauce.

Sautéed Corn—Melt ¼ cup butter or margarine in a shallow sauce pan, add 2 cups corn cut from the cob, salt and pepper to season, sauté until very hot and slightly browned—very slightly.

Jellied Beet Salad: 1 package lime gelatin. 1 1-2 cups water. 1 tablespoon vinegar. 1 teaspoon scraped onion. 1-2 teaspoon salt. Dash of pepper. 1 cup canned julienne beets. Lettuce. Mayonnaise or salad dressing.

Dissolve gelatin in water according to directions in package, add vinegar and seasonings and chill. When slightly thickened fold in onion and beets. Chill in individual molds or square pan until firm. Unmold on crisp lettuce and serve with mayonnaise or dressing.

Peach Sponge Cakes are simply individual sponge cake rings filled with sliced, sugared fresh peaches and topped with whipped cream sweetened and flavored lightly with rum or sherry. To make the sponge cakes beat the yolks of 2 eggs until very light, add 6 tablespoons sugar and continue beating until creamy and well mixed. Stir in 1 tablespoon water and 2 teaspoons lemon juice, then add 1 cup cake flour sifted before measuring and then sifted twice with 1-2 teaspoons baking powder. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and pour the batter into individual greased ring molds, or Mary Ann cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven for 15 or 20 minutes or until golden brown and firm to the touch. Invert to cool and when cold remove from the pans.

Timely Tomato Tips

(1) Cut firm ripe tomatoes crosswise, without peeling, in slices ½-inch thick. Dip in beaten egg highly seasoned with salt, pepper and minced onion, then dip in very fine dry bread crumbs to completely cover. Fry in hot fat in a frying pan until the surface is crisp and brown. Drain on soft paper and serve hot as a vegetable or as a main luncheon course with cheese and lettuce sandwiches.

(2) Scald and peel 2 large ripe tomatoes and cut in thin slices. Butter 4 slices bread, cover with a thick layer of grated cheese and cover the cheese with slices of tomato. Sprinkle the tomato with salt, pepper and a little leaf thyme and bake in a very hot oven until the cheese is bubbly and the bread slightly browned. Serve very hot, as a main luncheon course accompanied by a crisp green salad.

(3) Cut large firm ripe tomatoes in ½-inch thick slices and dip each slice in well-seasoned French dressing. Cover the tomato with a well-cooked, cold poached egg and cover the egg with mayonnaise mixed with plenty of minced chives and parsley. Garnish with watercress and serve as a luncheon salad.

(4) Broil thick slices of tomatoes and heap with creamy scrambled eggs, garnish with a crisp slice of bacon and serve for breakfast.

(5) Arrange slices of tomato on a bed of watercress and lettuce and place half slices of canned pineapple on the tomatoes. Garnish with small balls of pimiento cheese and serve with thin mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing.

(6) Peel and chop fine 1 large ripe tomato. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add the tomato, a tablespoon minced onion and 1 teaspoon salt and cook for 5 minutes. Stir in 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon sugar and when well mixed remove from the fire and beat in 3 egg yolks, one at a time. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, pour into buttered individual casserolles and bake in a hot oven for 25 minutes. Serve hot at once as an entree or for luncheon with a vegetable salad.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Vanilla Ice Cream.

- 1 1-2 cups top milk
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1-2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1-4 teaspoon salt
- ½ pint (1 cup) whipping cream
- 2 teaspoons vanilla

Mix cornstarch, sugar, salt, beaten egg yolks and milk. Cook in double boiler 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Cool. Add beaten whites and vanilla. Pour into freezing tray of refrigerator. Freeze to a heavy mush. Remove from refrigerator, beat until fluffy and fold in whipped cream. Freeze. Beat thoroughly after one hour.

Boiled Custard.

Beat 3 egg yolks slightly, using a fork; add 1-4 cup sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt; stir constantly while adding 2 cups scalded milk gradually. Cook in a double boiler, continue stirring until the mixture thickens, and when a coating is formed on the spoon, strain immediately; chill and flavor with 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. If the custard curdles from being cooked too long, beating with an egg beater will restore smoothness, though custard will be less thick. Eggs should be beaten slightly for custard, that it may be of smooth, thick consistency. To prevent crust from forming, cover with a piece of waxed paper while cooling. Two egg yolks and 1-2 tablespoon cornstarch may be used.

Cereal Makes Refrigerator Dessert

Welcome are the foods which require no cooking! Refrigerator desserts are a boon to the modern meal planner, for, though her meal may be a bit lean or skimpy, she knows that for the last course out of the refrigerator will pop a dessert which will do the final filling trick. Right away try this easy one:

Cereal Cream Roll.

- 1 1-2 cups whipping cream
- 8 marshmallows
- 1-4 cup honey
- 1-2 cup chopped dates
- 1-4 cup chopped nut meats
- 3 1-2 cups rice cereal

Whip cream until stiff, reserve 3-4 cup. Cut marshmallows into small pieces, adding them to the cream. Add honey, dates and nut meats. Roll cereal into fine crumbs and add 1 cup of crumbs to cream mixture. Blend well. Spread remaining crumbs evenly on a piece of waxed paper and chill several hours. Slice and serve garnished with remaining whipped cream and fresh fruit or berries. Makes 10 servings.

Creamed Shrimp on Toast.

- 1 No. 1 can shrimp
- 1 cup medium white sauce
- 4 slices toast, buttered
- 1-4 pound package pimiento cheese

Add shrimp to medium white sauce. Spread on buttered toast and cover with thin slices of pimiento cheese. Toast under broiler for a few minutes until cheese is melted and delicately browned. Serves 4.

Pear-Grape Salad.

Chill canned pears well before opening. Drain. Cover outer sides with a thin icing of cream cheese, moistened with mayonnaise. Cover this "frosting" with rows of seeded grape halves so that pear resembles a bunch of grapes. Serve with salad greens and mayonnaise. Pitted, canned or fresh cherries, or molded cranberry sauce, may replace grapes.

Cereal cream roll is a tempting refrigerator dessert.

Avocado Salad

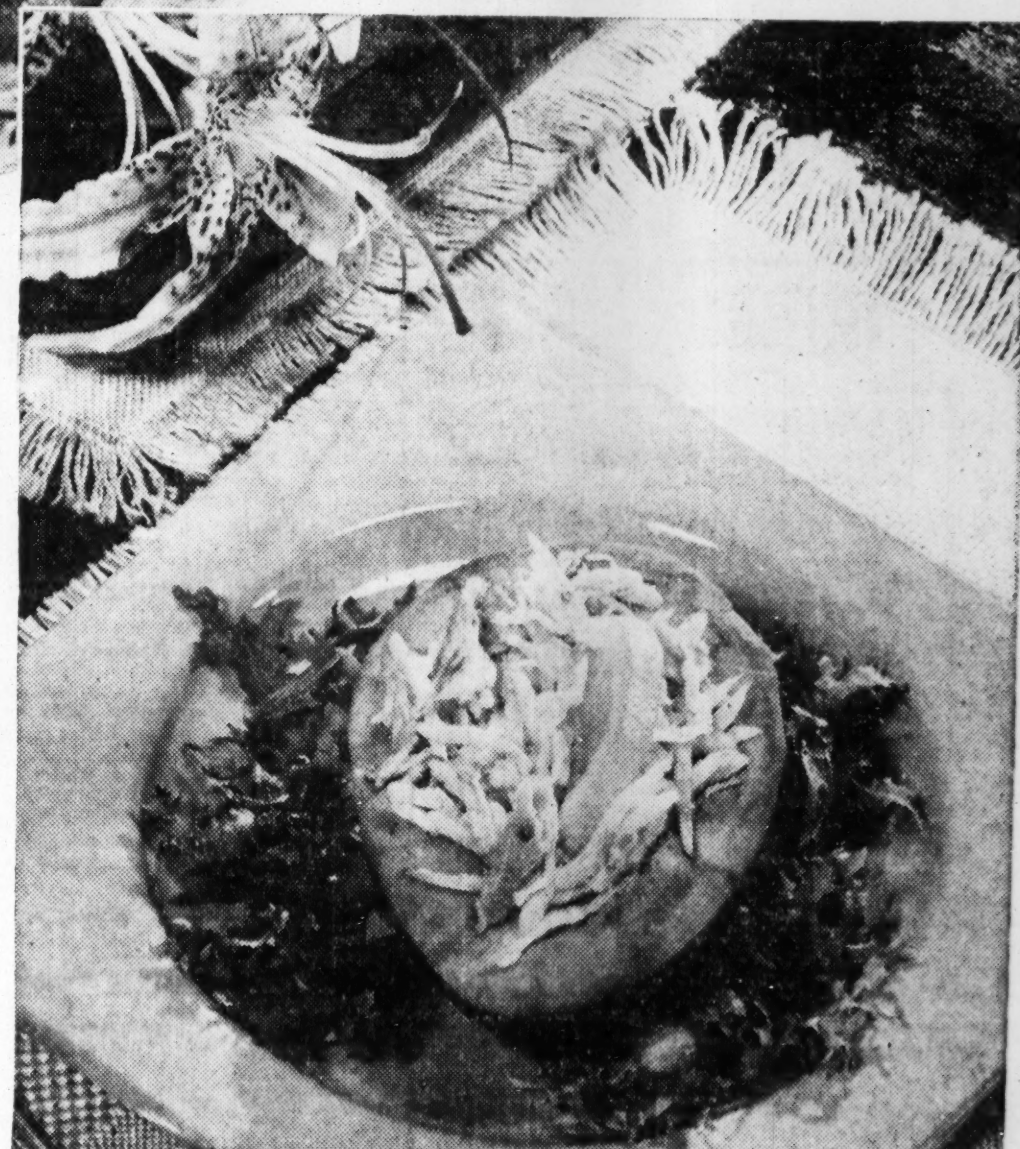

Party salads do not have to be elaborate, but they must have a certain dramatic quality and air of distinction. Here's one that has party qualifications, and which will stamp you as a smart hostess.

Sherried Crab Meat in Avocados.

(Serves Four)

- 2 medium avocados
- 1 cup crab meat, frozen or canned
- 1-2 cup sherry
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Peel well chilled avocados and cut in half lengthwise. Remove stones. Marinate crab meat in sherry for 20 minutes. Fill avocado halves, add a dash of lemon juice and serve on curly endive or lettuce, garnished with a slice of lemon. For a luncheon serve with tiny hot rolls, coffee or tea and peach sundae.

For a pretty luncheon party, stuff avocados with sherried crabmeat and surround with crisp lettuce or curly endive.

Rotterdam Docks Hit by Fortresses

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(P)—American-built fortress planes bombed Rotterdam docks in occupied Holland this afternoon, it was stated authoritatively today.

Rotterdam, scene of the Germans' first great air blitz in the west, thus took its place among the select cities raided by the big four-motored American planes now being used by the British. Previously they have been used to bomb Brest, Hamburg and other important German ports and naval bases.

Royal Air Force bombers attacked docks at Brest, German-occupied French port and naval base, during the night, British authorities said.

German air activity over Britain, meanwhile, was on a small scale. Bombs fell at points in northeast England, a government communique said.

"WE'LL WIN YET!"—Warren Foster (right), Atlanta business executive, pepped up the annual meeting of the Atlanta Chapter of the Military Order of the World War last night at the Brookhaven Country Club by posing as a Greek ambassador and bringing a message of hope for Europe's conquered countries. Retail Stores, Customers Like New Credit Rule Changed Regulations Little Different From Old System, They Say..

Furniture and other household goods can still be purchased on the installment or easy-pay plan, a survey of local retail stores revealed yesterday.

Local furniture stores, reporting an increase in business during the past few days, point out that the new regulations governing installment plans are little different from the former policies of the merchants, and that in many instances customers are highly pleased with the new regulations.

"As the general public becomes more familiar with the new regulations and the new payment plans, there will be still more purchasing," one Atlanta furniture dealer said yesterday as he told about the increase his business has shown during the past 30 days.

Lawrence Fox, president of the National Furniture & Stores Corporation in Atlanta, said "that the new plan will not curtail necessary purchases of the consumers to any large degree and everything will work out wisely for the public is informed on the new regulations."

Retailers Comment.

Other comment from the retailers in the furniture and household field:

W. H. Jones, Haverly Furniture Company: "It's bound to work out all right both for the retailer and the consumer."

Harry Looney, Mather Brothers, Inc.: "Furniture buying as I see it can be continued in the future as in the past and the transition from the old general methods to the new should be simple."

Al Matthews Jr., Ed & Al Matthews: "I think the new regulations are a good thing for business generally. They won't work any hardships on the customers except for a few special cases, and both the customer and dealer should benefit."

L. Rudin, Rich's, Inc.: "The 10 per cent down, 18 months to pay regulation ordered by the government is about what is now required. The average customer likes it that way. Installments stretched over a period of two or three years are often harmful. The public, it appears, is practically the same old demand for installment regulation covered articles."

Standard Plan.
 L. K. MacFarland, Sterchi Brothers Stores, Inc.: "The furniture business itself has been trying to establish a standard installment plan for years and I think the new regulations are a step along that line. It's all right with us and we think it will be all right with the buying public. Actually, the new regulations will be a good, healthy thing."

James J. Doran, Davison-Paxon's: "The new regulations are very well planned and will work no hardship on either the dealer or the customer. It shouldn't discourage furniture buying and customers will have practically the same credit opportunities they have had up to now."

L. G. Sherman, Carroll Furniture Company: "Contrary to public impression, government regulation on credit terms of furniture are practically as liberal as ever before."

Hugh Mason, Mason Furniture Company: "There was a definite rush last week by customers who didn't know there was little difference in buying furniture under the new government regulations."

Mark Porter, Bass Furniture Company: "The customers are taking the new regulations as a matter of effect and law with few complaints and the new standard installment plan should be a lifesaver to the little stores."

A. B. Dorsen, J. M. High Company: "The customers and the retailers have accepted the new installment regulations with vigor and determination, but really there is little or no change in the installment covering ordinary household furnishings."

The government's regulations on installment buying are divided into five general groups, and briefly here are the rules that went into effect Monday:

Group A: Automobiles: A down payment of 33 1/3 per cent of the purchase price is required with 18 months to pay the balance.

Group B: Aircraft, power boats, outboard motorboats and motorcycles. Down payment of 33 1/3 per cent with 18 months to pay.

Group C: Household items. Down payment 20 per cent, 18 months to pay. In this group are mechanical refrigerators, of less than 12 cubic feet capacity, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, cooking stoves and ranges with less than seven heating surfaces, dishwashers, heating stoves, room air conditioning units, sewing machines, radios, victrolas or combinations of both and all musical instruments.

Other Groups.

Group D: Household furnaces and heating units for furnaces, stokers, gas burners, oil burners, water heaters, water pumps, plumbing, and household sanitary fixtures, house air conditioning systems, pianos, and household electric organs. Down payment 15 per cent, with 18 months to pay. Excludes floor, wall and bed coverings.

Group E: Repairs, alterations and improvements to real property not in excess of $1,000. No restrictions on cash down payment, and balance in 18 months.

Group F: Furniture, chairs, beds, mattresses and other related household items not included in other regulations, a down payment of 10 per cent and the balance in 18 months.

F. D. R. Cites Effect of High Court Battle

Adoption by U. S. of Alien Form of Government Averted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(P)—President Roosevelt, in the first of five articles to be published in Collier's Weekly, said in the current issue, that he believed his supreme court fight in 1937 eliminated possible adoption by the United States of an alien form of government.

That year, he said, "marked a definite turning point in the history of the United States. For this was the year which was to determine whether the kind of government which the people of the United States had voted for in 1932, 1934 and 1936 was to be permitted by the supreme court to function."

"If it had not been permitted to function as a democracy, it is my reasoned opinion that there would have been great danger that it might have been ultimately compelled to give way to some alien type of government—in the vain hope that the new form of government might be able to give the average men and women the protection and co-operative assistance which they had the right to expect."

The articles, which will serve as introductions to forthcoming additional volumes of his "public papers and addresses," cover the period from 1937 through 1940.

Poland Shares In Lease-Lend War Supplies

Unit Undergoing Training in Canada To Get U. S. Aid.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—In line with the policy of helping all peoples resisting aggression, President Roosevelt's opened a lend-lease money box today to give American aid to a Polish unit undergoing training in Canada for "action overseas."

He authorized the sending in the near future of machine guns, sub-machine guns, rifles, artillery equipment, trucks and other supplies needed by the contingent, which is made up mostly of Polish-American volunteers.

A presidential statement said the supplies would come out of the $7,000,000,000 lend-lease fund, which heretofore has been used to aid only Great Britain, China, and Greece before the latter fell victim to the Nazi push.

The chief executive said his action demonstrated this government's intention to give material support to the "fighting determination of the Polish people to establish once again the independence of which they were so inhumanly deprived."

He emphasized that this aid to the Polish government in exile was a continuing expression of the American policy to "extend aid to all who resist aggression" and declared the "gallant resistance" of the Poles was vital to the defense of the United States.

participated in the War Between the States.

Colonel H. G. Vandiviere, of Canton, introduced Judge J. Harold Hawkins, of Marietta, the principal speaker.

A basket dinner was served at noon and announcement was made that the 1942 reunion would be held August 30 at the home of S. R. Dawson at Woodstock.

Youth Joins Navy and Learns He Didn't Know His Own Name

At least one Atlanta youth had to join the Navy in order to find out his full name.

Calvin Kytie, employee at the Atlanta NYA office and a June graduate of Emory University, until recently had gone through life satisfied with the name Calvin Kytie. When he had to obtain his birth certificate in order to join the Navy as an ensign, he discovered he had been registered under the name David Calvin Kytie. Even his parents were astounded.

It seems that Kytie's grandfather had filled out the birth certificate when Calvin was born and had inserted the name David.

Old 'Hello Girls' Picnic Hostesses

The mothers and grandmothers who used to be "hello girls" at the exchange of the old Atlanta Telephone Company, at Edgewood avenue and Gilmore street, held a picnic at the pavilion in Grant Park last night.

With them as guests were their husbands, children and grandchildren. Between 25 and 30 of the old-time operators were present.

Reminiscences of the days, 30 years or so ago, when Atlanta had two telephone systems instead of one, enlivened many conversations.

Among the former operators present were Mrs. C. D. Painter, who was chief operator; Mrs. J. Edgar Phillips, who was night supervisor; Mrs. W. E. Bender, Miss Lila Brooks, Mrs. Albert Wingate, Miss Ruby Brooks Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Burness, Mrs. Paul Anderson, Mrs. Ina Thomas, Miss Myrtle Collins, Mrs. Grace Mitchell, Mrs. L. J. Gallup Poll Reveals:

U. S. Favors Aid to de Gaulle

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.
PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 4.—Among American voters familiar with the Free French movement under General Charles de Gaulle there is overwhelming sentiment in favor of extending American aid to the de Gaulle forces. Evidence of this sentiment comes from a nationwide survey of public opinion by the Institute.

With new outbursts of anti-Vichy sentiment in France, culminating in the shooting of Pierre Laval and Marcel Deat, many friends of France in the United States are advocating direct American aid to the Free French forces. Some, indeed, have suggested that with American war materials and supplies, General de Gaulle might be able to take Dakar, thus relieving the United States and Britain of worry over possible Nazi encroachments there.

To test American sentiment on the proposition of lease-lend aid to de Gaulle, the Institute put the following issue to all voters, who indicated that they were familiar with the Free French movement.

"Do you think the United States should send war materials under the lease-lend program to the Free French forces of General de Gaulle?"

The vote is:
Yes 74%
No 16%
No opinion 10%

The voters advance two main arguments in favor of aiding de Gaulle, as follows:

1. "The Free French are trying to combat Nazism and that warrants our help."

2. "The Free French are the 'real soul' of France."

Baptist Mission Gifts Show Gain
An increase of $93,536.37 in contributions to Baptist home missions for the first eight months of this year over the same period last year was reported yesterday by Dr. J. B. Lawrence, treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, at a meeting of the board here. Total contributions for the eight months amounted to $517,295.22.

After hearing the report, the board named Miss Elizabeth Taylor, of Harrison, Ark., as missionary for kindergarten work at Key West, Fla., and Rev. Alfred Schwab as missionary to the French-speaking population at Basile, La.

Tech Requests Radio Permit Be Renewed

Application Declares WGST Owned Wholly by School.

A petition calling upon the Federal Communications Commission to renew the radio broadcasting license of the Georgia School of Technology was filed in Washington yesterday by Attorney John E. McClure, who submitted an accompanying statement that Georgia Tech owned all transmission equipment and other property connected with the operation of Radio Station WGST.

The attorney, representing the Governor, filed the formal petition for a renewal of license contingent upon satisfactory proof within 15 days that the present management contract between the school and Southern Broadcasting Stations, Inc., has been terminated and that control, management and operation of WGST actually vest in and is being exercised by Georgia Tech.

In his separate statement, McClure said Southern Broadcasting Stations, Inc., has been terminated and that control, management and operation of WGST actually vest in and is being exercised by Georgia Tech.

He declared that if there is any basis for a dispute between Georgia Tech and the Southern Broadcasting Stations it is a matter for the courts of Georgia and not the FCC.

The statement neither objected to nor agreed with the intervention filed last week by Southern Broadcasting Stations.

Coates Gains Fourth Respite On Court Writ

Tattall Judge Sets Hearing September 13 on Habeas Corpus Plea.

City Court Judge M. W. Eason, of Reidsville, yesterday granted a writ of habeas corpus for Charles Coates, who is under sentence to die today for the shooting of a State Highway patrolman.

The hearing will be held at 9 o'clock September 13 in Judge Eason's chambers. It is the fourth stay of execution Coates has won since his conviction last February.

Attorneys for Coates took their petition to Judge Eason after Judge Joseph Grice, of the Atlantic superior court circuit, refused to sanction it earlier in the afternoon.

The petition alleged that Coates is being held illegally for the murder of Patrol Corporal Fred Black Jr., of Macon. It charges that Coates was denied choice of counsel and that during the trial one juror was excused without Coates' consent.

In stating that he had granted the writ, Judge Eason said "there was nothing left for me to do but to sign it." If Coates can substantiate his contentions at the hearing next week, he will go free.

Coates has been sentenced to die in the electric chair here three times.

Southeastern Hotel Men in 3-Day Session

Greeters Here Welcome 350 Delegates; LeCraw To Speak Today.

Hotel men from all sections of the southeast arrived in Atlanta last night for the southeastern regional convention of the Hotel Greeters of America, which opens a three-day session this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

Many of the 350 or more delegates reached the hotel by motorcade from Gainesville, where they were met by Atlanta greeters and escorted here.

A reception for the Greeters was held last night at the Ansley hotel. The hotel men will be welcomed at 9:30 o'clock this morning by Mayor LeCraw. Other speakers will be International President H. Franklin Miller, of Philadelphia; Past International President Crawford Noble, of Jonesboro, Ark.; Andrew O'Rourke, of Miami; Arthur Landstreet, of Jackson, Miss.; and Howard Dayton, of Albany, Ga.

James McCabe, manager of the Pennsylvania hotel in New York, will address the convention at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The convention comes to Atlanta as guests of the Peach Charter, the charter for the state of Georgia.

Job Program Includes Regulars and Draftees

The re-employment program of the selective service system, in which some 6,000 Georgians being released from military service will be helped to find jobs in civilian life, will include men from the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps as well as selectees, local boards in the state were advised yesterday.

A committeeman is being designated for each local board to help service men obtain their old jobs and their former seniority, or get new jobs if the men were unemployed before going into service, it was announced at state selective service headquarters.

Inez Robb Told: Revolt Against Hitler Nearing

By INEZ ROBB, International News Staff Writer.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(INS)—Resistance to the Nazi tyrant by the conquered peoples of Europe is rising everywhere like an inexorable tide, in the opinion of a Belgian diplomat, an American actress and an English novelist who arrived in New York today by trans-Atlantic Clipper plane.

Baron Robert Silvercruys, Belgian minister to Canada and a deputy minister of war in the exiled Belgian government; Miss Bebe Daniels, idolized comedienne of America's silent movies; and now a great radio favorite in England, and Sir Philip Gibbs, British writer, in separate interviews at the Pan-American airbase at La Guardia Field told of growing unrest in Nazi-dominated Europe.

"The most powerful underground movements in Europe, very much stronger than in the last war. This is to be expected, since the conquered territory is so much larger," said Sir Philip.

With some hesitancy, Sir Philip, a tall, frail man with a white hair, admitted that the underground movement is under the direction of a strong central organization.

Not For Discussion.
"But I do not think that is something to be discussed at this moment," he said. "There is no giving information to the enemy."

When he was asked how conquered and disarmed peoples could hope to revolt against conquerors armed with blitz weapons, he smiled faintly and said:

"One of these days the weapons will reach them," and then added bluntly, "they are reaching them now!"

Baron Silvercruys, in a double-breasted blue suit and the inevitable badge of European diplomacy, a black homburg, said in a prepared statement:

"In every occupied country there is an earthquake of revolt. No Gestapo on earth can protect traitors from the vengeance of their own people!"

Mrs. John C. Winant, youthful wife of the American ambassador to England, was another incoming passenger in the Dixie Clipper. Shy but determined, she read a prepared statement from the back of a postcard, to which she referred frequently during her brief remarks.

First Line of Defense.
"I believe England is our first line of defense," she read.

Mrs. Winant was met at the airport by her two sons, John, 19, who is entering Princeton this autumn, and Rivington, 15. They left almost immediately by plane for New Hampshire.

Miss Jessie Matthews, an English musical comedy star who also arrived in the Dixie Clipper, described the worst of the air blitzes in Bristol.

"After that frightful night in Bristol," she said, speaking of the big blitz there, "it was amazing to see chorus girls reporting for rehearsals with bandaged heads."

"I said inately, 'Well, it could have been worse,' and to get everyone's mind off his troubles added, 'Let's try this new step. It looks difficult.'"

Spirit of England.
"And the kid next to me said, 'It couldn't have been much worse. I lost my mother last night.' Then she took her place in line and carried on. That sums up the spirit of England."

Miss Daniels, who returns to her native land with her actor-husband, Ben Lyon, for a brief visit with their children, said that "there is a great deal of unrest on the continent."

"Before I left England, I talked with boys who had just escaped from Holland. They said many Germans are being murdered."

The Dutch sense of humor is as difficult for the conquerors to deal with as the murders. Miss Daniels said her informants told her many Dutch had been sent to concentration camps because they laughed and made jokes at the expense of the Nazis.

Lyon and Miss Daniels have been in England almost continuously for five years with the exception of a quick trip home 26 months ago to bring their daughter, Barbara, 9, and their adopted son, Richard, 6, out of the war zone. The excited children—no more happy than their parents—were at the airport today.

Pretty as Ever.

Miss Daniels, as pretty as ever, with the huge, flashing dark eyes that attracted millions when she played opposite Harold Lloyd in silent films, and her husband have long been the stars of a big weekly

Bowman Man Put Reeves Hearing On Elbert Board

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
ELBERTON, Ga., Sept. 4.—E. L. Fleming, of Bowman, has been named as successor to Fred W. Auld on the Selective Service Board of Elbert county. Auld resigned some time ago when a federal grand jury failed to indict Austin Moore for an alleged personal assault growing out of Moore's registration.

Reeves Hearing Is Set for Today

Preliminary hearing for Alex Reeves, Atlanta machine shop operator, arrested Tuesday on a warrant charging him with the murder of Al Messier, Chattahoochee county dude ranch operator who was fatally shot at a drive-in establishment near Cloudland, Ga., will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Summerville, Ga.

W. F. Brandt, Atlanta attorney for Reeves, yesterday obtained postponement of the hearing on the grounds that he was seeking a number of witnesses in Cloudland and the drive-in establishment who could tell about what transpired a short time prior to the shooting.

Reeves, in a statement made in Summerville, said he shot Messier after the latter had attacked Mrs. Reeves.

Sweet Potato Crop in Walton Is Being Sold

Co-operative Group Sets Up Grading Plant for Tubers.

By JULIA HARRIS.
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
MONROE, Ga., Sept. 4.—The sweet potato crop in Walton county has been moving to the markets in large quantities during the last month.

Members of the newly incorporated Walton Yam Co-operative, Inc., who had extremely early potatoes, began marketing them a month ago. As the volume of the harvest increased, the co-op set up a grading and packing shed in the Monroe armory.

"During the last month more than 2,000 bushels have been sold through the co-operative, bringing nearly $3,000 to the farmers of the county, with more to come later. The opening price for well graded potatoes this season was $3 per bushel. The price since the packing shed has been in operation has varied from $1.10 to $1.40 per bushel for U. S. No. 1 potatoes, averaging about $1.30 for the volume handled."

The sweet potatoes are brought to the packing shed by the farmers and there they are cleaned, graded, packed and labeled by workers trained for their jobs. They are sold in neat attractive crates bearing the label of the co-op.

R. P. Burson, a veteran potato grower and president of the co-op has already sold through the co-op more than $600 worth of potatoes from a 4-2-acre patch. Mr. Burson says, "My potato crop looks much better than lots of other Walton county cotton this year."

CHIEFS CONFER.—Police Chief Hornsby and former Chiefs James L. Beavers, left, and T. O. Sturdivant, right, have something in common, the ex-police department heads agreed yesterday. They have been under fire at one time or another when city administrations changed. Beavers was fired twice and suspended and Sturdivant was suspended in a probe of the police yearbook. "It's all in the job," they said.

Savage Rules Carroll Must Be Given Trial

Attorney Rules Committee Cannot Demote Without Hearing.

City council's police committee has no authority to order Captain Luther J. Carroll, of the evening watch, demoted without a trial, City Attorney Jack C. Savage said yesterday in an opinion filed with Mayor LeCraw and Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee.

Although Savage's four-page written opinion did not mention Carroll by name, it pointed out specifically that officers could not be demoted and their places filled by acting officers without trials guaranteed by civil service provisions.

The committee ordered Carroll assigned to the station lieutenant's office last Friday night, but Police Chief Hornsby has declined to order the shift. This has precipitated the latest controversy between and police committee and the chief over administration of the department.

Savage's opinion, however, was specific in saying the committee had control over the department in all matters except restrictions imposed by charter amendments and ordinances. Civil service is a charter act passed by the Georgia assembly.

In connection with the Carroll episode, the ruling said in part: "It is my opinion that under existing charter provisions, ordinances and rules of the department that the police committee is without authority to assign a captain to the duties of station lieutenant, for that such action would amount to a demotion without a trial, in violation of the civil service laws of the department, in that it would strip him of authority as a captain, subject him to the orders of a captain or acting captain, and change the duties required of him in their entirety. This conclusion applies generally to the assignment of superior officers to position of inferior rank."

find no authority in the charter or ordinances for creating the position of 'acting lieutenants, captains, etc.' except to fill vacancies due to absences, suspensions, removals, etc. There being no vacancy due to any of these causes in the position of captain, the designation of a lieutenant (Hiram Davis) as acting captain is without authority."

Overtime Pay Is Awarded To 2,449 Workers

48 State Firms Ordered To Make Restitution to Employees.

Employees of 48 Georgia firms, including 10 in Atlanta, were among a total of 2,449 employees of 81 concerns in Georgia, Florida and South Carolina to receive restitution of $59,451.15 of overtime pay during the last week of August, J. R. McLeod, regional director of the wage and hour division for three states, announced yesterday.

The Atlanta concerns making restitution are: William & Harvey Rowland, Inc., automotive specialists, $2,861.12 to 32 employees; Lamar-Runkin Company, wholesale druggists, $2,747 to 88 employees; Upchurch Packing Company, meat packing, $624.64 to 15 employees; Harry F. Dobbis, Inc., hotel and restaurant, $325.49 to six employees.

Nu-Grape Bottling Company, manufacturer of concentrate for soft drinks, $458.44 to nine employees; Atlanta Grocery Company, wholesale grocery, $360.95 to three employees; American Discount Company, time sales financing, $248.21 to seven employees.

C. L. Fain Company, wholesale produce, $225 to three employees; Jewelers' Supply Company, wholesale jeweler supplies, $197.45 to two employees; Harry C. Biglin, factory representative, electrical products, $28.84 to three employees.

Cadwell Farmer Is Found Dead

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 4.—A Laurens county coroner's jury late today found that Jim Smith, 24, Cadwell farmer found dead beside his log truck at a sawmill near Cadwell shortly after noon, came to his death "from causes unknown."

The body, bruised and cut about the neck and arms, was lying where he had been unloading logs alone in the mill yard. The mill was not in operation.

Dr. A. T. Coleman, county physician, examining the body at a mortuary here, declared that in his opinion the injuries were insufficient to have caused death. Judge Samuel (Sammy) the Rose, Roseman, who designed the new seven-man control board, slipped out for lunch with Presidential Secretaries Grace Tully and Mary Eben.

'Committee Is Boss,' Beavers, Sturdivant Warn; They Know

Police Administration Battles 'Nothing New,' Recall Two Retired Veterans Who 'Went Through the Mill.'

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Police Chief Hornsby's fight to retain his position is nothing new in Atlanta, former Chiefs James L. Beavers and T. O. Sturdivant, who together served more than a quarter of a century as heads of the department, agreed yesterday.

Discussing the latest controversy over administrative control of the department, the veterans of years of service, who carry the scars of many battles with newly elected mayors and council members, said they ought to know "because we've been through the mill."

"Why for 40 years, changes in city administrations have precipitated controversies over whether the chief or the committee will direct the department's affairs," they said. "Future elections will bring future controversies."

Suspended, dismissed from service and in the midst of recurring battles between warring factions of the department and of the city administrations, the two men served an aggregate of more than 70 years in the department and more than 25 years as chiefs.

New administrations want new police policies and that usually means new police heads, they agreed. They accepted those policies as a matter of course, but they resisted them, just as Hornsby is now resisting.

Although the chiefs believe the chief should be in charge of the department, both agreed that police committee recommendations and orders should be executed by the chief as long as they "are legal."

"A chief should try to get along with Chief Beavers nodding agreement. 'I always tried to do that, but I didn't always succeed. I had to do a lot of things I didn't want to do, but under the law the committee is the boss, and should be respected as such until the law is changed."

"Grand juries make a lot of recommendations," Beavers said, in alluding to the recommendations that studies be made to ascertain whether or not a segregated district should be re-established in Atlanta, "but they rarely have time to make a thorough investigation of matters."

"I don't think we should give the color of protection to licensed prostitution. It is a kind of license to violate our own laws."

Beavers, assisted by Sturdivant who then was head of the detective department, was the one who clamped down on the old district and finally succeeded in having it outlawed.

The church people help in matters of moral benefit, but when it comes to the color of protection to licensed prostitution, it is a kind of license to violate our own laws."

Scant Surprise Felt in London At Sub Attack

Belief Long Held Assault Upon U. S. Warships Was Inevitable.

LONDON (Friday), Sept. 5.—(AP)—Informed British quarters today received with apparent excitement but scant surprise the United States Navy announcement that a United States destroyer was attacked by a submarine while en route to Iceland.

The British were pointedly aware of the first United States public and official reaction. Despite the reticence of authoritative quarters, there has long been widespread belief among Britons that attacks on United States warships were inevitable since the occupation of Iceland by United States forces.

When the occupation was announced in July, newspapers jubilantly observed that Hitler was confronted with the choice of leaving the North Atlantic sea lanes open or of forcing the United States into a shooting war.

It was recalled that Prime Minister Churchill remarked in his broadcast August 23 that Hitler had "murdered half a dozen countries for far less" than what the United States was doing to help Axis foes.

Nazis Deny Knowledge OF SUBMARINE ATTACK

BERLIN (Friday), Sept. 5.—(AP)—The German Navy Department and other Berlin authorities available early today said they had no knowledge of a reported submarine attack on an American destroyer as announced by the United States Navy in Washington.

Hubert L. (Big Nig) Cobb, described by police officials as one of the biggest lottery operators in Atlanta, was buried yesterday in West View cemetery following funeral services at Spring Hill. He died Wednesday of a heart attack.

Pailbearers were Gordon McNabb, secretary of the July-August grand jury; Charlie Strickland, Joe Lewis, Claude Smith, George Tidwell and Roy Roberts. Dr. Robert W. Burns, pastor of the Peachtree Christian church, paid Cobb tribute for his generosity and kind deeds for the "poor and despised" of the city.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Hugh and William Lyons, and one daughter, Barbara Lyons. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Awtry & Lowndes.

15 School Buses Added in Laurens

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 4.—Fifteen new all-steel school buses for use in the Laurens county system arrived here yesterday, bringing to 55 the total number of buses to be put into use in the county's schools this year.

The 15 new buses represent an outlay of $23,000. County School Superintendent Elbert Mullis said. The entire 15 are owned outright by the county board of education. Of the 40 other buses, the county board owns 15 of the bodies, while private contractors furnish the motors and other buses.

Big Paving Project Is Seen in Bleckley

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. COCHRAN, Ga., Sept. 4.—County Commissioner R. H. Peacock announced this week that a $200,000 road paving project would begin in Bleckley county soon. Approximately one-third of the unpaved road between here and the Dublin highway will be let September 12. All of the road to be paved is in Bleckley county and work will begin at the city limits of Cochran and will extend 5.220 miles, Peacock said.

This road is 16 miles long, connecting with federal highway No. 80, and is almost impassable after a long rainy spell. The completion of this strip will leave 10 miles unpaved and it is hoped the whole strip will be completed at an early date.

Sealed proposals will be received September 12 by the State Highway Board in Atlanta.

Dublin Also Bans Oil, Grease Sales

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DUBLIN, Ga., Sept. 4.—This city today went Secretary Ickes one better.

City council put into effect an ordinance, passed Monday night, prohibiting the sale of not only gasoline between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., but also "oil, grease and any other petroleum products used in the operation of motor vehicles."

The ruling provides, however, that in cases of bona fide emergency, such as doctors' or ambulance calls, or private motorists faced with making necessary trips for business or other purposes not classified as pleasure and which were not foreseen, the police department may issue permits for securing the necessary fuel.

The ordinance was drawn at the request of a group of local filling station operators, but does not affect a number of other operators just outside the city limits, particularly in East Dublin. It went into effect Tuesday night.

Work Is Seen In 1942 Upon Etowah Dam

Congressman Tarver Advised Funds Sought for Project.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., Sept. 4.—Indications that work on the Allatoona dam project on the Etowah river may begin during the fiscal year of 1942 were set forth in a letter received here Wednesday from Congressman Malcolm C. Tarver.

Brigadier General John J. Kingman, acting chief of the War Department engineers, informed Tarver that the department is "thoroughly exploring the possibility of obtaining funds for the initiation of the Allatoona project in the fiscal year 1942."

The engineer said a study is being made to determine the amount of funds which can be profitably used for the project during the coming year.

"You may be assured," the engineer stated to Tarver, "that the department recognizes the importance of the Allatoona project for flood control and the development of hydro-electric power and that it is fully prepared to undertake the design and construction of the Allatoona dam without delay when funds for these purposes become available."

Congressman Tarver has urged immediate steps be taken to begin work on the project since it was included in the flood control act approved August 18 and heartily recommended and endorsed by the Federal Power Commission and William S. Knudsen, director general of the OPM. Tarver had advocated that the War Department submit estimates to the Bureau of the Budget for an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the initiation of construction of the dam.

In addition to the National Housing administrator, Ryburn Clay, a son of the senator, and Colonel Lucius Clay, a member of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and a relative of Senator Clay, will also attend the ceremonies.

Atlantic Patrol Foils U-Boats, German Admits

Convoy Protection Making Attack Difficult, Sub Captain Says.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—(AP)—A German submarine commander disclosed today that widespread patrol of the Atlantic by airplanes and British U-boat chasers was making successful German submarine operations difficult.

The officer, Lieutenant Commander Kell, said in today's Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung that the British were exerting the greatest efforts to bring convoys safely to their home ports. Kell participated in a recent destructive U-boat attack on a British convoy off Portugal.

Protection of convoys by airplanes has "been extensively developed" and "extends virtually over the entire Atlantic and forces U-boats frequently to dive," he said.

"They send convoys over the northernmost route where there is hardly any darkness because of the short summer nights, or the protection is so strong that often several days of tenacious pursuit are necessary in order finally to get into shooting position," Kell continued.

Recently, he explained, shipping on the high seas "has become a little more lively" after months "in which the Atlantic became empty and the U-boats did not sight a mast for weeks."

Britain Will Get Seized Axis Ship

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Maritime Commission's Boston office said today the Italian freighter Dino, one of the Axis ships seized here last March, would be transferred into British service when repairs are completed in about two weeks.

The commission reported that, contrary to previous belief, the Dino would not be drafted into American service but instead would fly the British and carry war supplies after repairs are finished.

The ship was not sabotaged by its Italian crew, the Maritime Commission said. Repair work was undertaken to conform with regulations of the Board of Trade.
